INTRODUCTION TO THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS

Nature of the Public Accounts

The Public Accounts is the report of the Government of Canada prepared each fiscal year by the Receiver General as required by Section 64 of the Financial Administration Act.

The report covers the fiscal year of the Government, which ends on March 31, and is prepared from data contained in the accounts of Canada and from more detailed records maintained in departments and agencies. The accounts of Canada is the centralized record of the Government's financial transactions maintained by the Receiver General in which the transactions of all departments and agencies are summarized. Each department and agency is responsible for reconciling its accounts to the control accounts of the Receiver General, and for maintaining detailed records of the transactions in their accounts.

The report covers the financial transactions of the Government during the year. In certain cases, parliamentary authority to undertake transactions was provided by legislation approved in earlier years.

Format of the Public Accounts

The Public Accounts is produced in three volumes.

Volume I presents a summary analysis of the financial transactions of the Government. Its content is summarized as follows:

SECTION 1: financial overview and a ten-year summary of the Government's financial transactions;

SECTION 2: audited financial statements of the Government of Canada, prepared in accordance with Section 64 of the Financial Administration Act;

SECTION 3: review of budgetary revenue;

SECTION 4: review of budgetary expenditure;

SECTION 5: analysis of consolidated accounts;

SECTION 6: analysis of loans, investments and advances;

SECTION 7: analysis of specified purpose accounts;

SECTION 8: analysis of other liabilities;

SECTION 9: analysis of foreign exchange accounts;

SECTION 10: analysis of unmatured debt; and,

SECTION 11: analysis of other information related to the financial statements.

Volume II is published in two parts. Part I presents the financial operations of the Government, segregated by ministry while Part II presents additional information and analyses.

(a) PART I

Part I is designed to reflect as closely as possible the form and content of Part II of the Main Estimates. Most tables and statements in Part I display the source and disposition of spending authorities. The content of Part I is summarized as follows:

(i) Summary Tables (Section 1)

Section 1 includes tables which provide summaries of the financial operations contained in the ministerial sections. It also includes, as appendices, the full wording of all authorities granted in current year Appropriation Acts, of all authorities granted by statutes other than Appropriation Acts, of all non-lapsing authorities granted in the current year, and of all authorities available from previous years.

(ii) Ministerial Sections (Sections 2 to 30)

There is one section for each ministry. The programs for the departments and agencies for which a Minister is responsible to Parliament are grouped together to provide a total ministry presentation. Each ministerial section provides a statement of program objectives and activity descriptions. Each ministerial section also includes, where applicable, a uniform set of statements to present each ministry's financial operations. These statements are:

- Ministry Summary

  This statement displays by program the source and disposition of each budgetary and non-budgetary authority granted by Parliament in Appropriation Acts and other statutes.

- Programs by Activity

  This statement displays by program the source and disposition of authorities for each activity under each type of expenditure (operating, capital, transfer payments and non-budgetary).

- Transfer Payments

  This statement displays by program the source and disposition of authorities for each transfer payment.

- Details of Amounts Credited to the Vote

  This statement displays by program the nature of revenues and receipts which increase the amounts which may be spent from appropriations having net voting authority.

- Revenue

  This statement displays by program the nature of revenue collected for each main classification of revenue.

(b) PART II

Part II presents additional information and analyses. The content of Part II is summarized as follows:

- financial statements of revolving funds (Section 1);
- financial statements of departmental corporations and other entities (Section 2);
- supplementary information required by the Financial Administration Act (Section 3);
- accounts receivable (Section 4);
- professional and special services (Section 5);
- construction and/or acquisition of land, buildings, works, machinery and equipment (Section 6);
- transfer payments (Section 7);

- payments of damage claims, ex gratia payments, Federal Court awards and nugatory payments (Section 9);
- federal-provincial shared-cost programs (Section 10);
- other Government-wide information (Section 11); and,
- other miscellaneous information (Section 12).

Volume III contains an annual consolidated report on the businesses and activities of all parent Crown corporations together with a listing of all Crown corporations and other corporate interests of Canada.

INTRODUCTION

This section provides an overview of the financial operations of the Government of Canada. The financial statements of the Government are set out in summary form, with comparative figures for the previous ten years. The financial transactions are presented in accordance with the accounting policies explained in Note 1 to the audited financial statements in Section 2 of this volume.

The statements reflect the accounting basis introduced in the February 1986 Budget, whereby the transactions of certain specified purpose accounts and other accounts are reported as part of budgetary transactions rather than non-budgetary transactions. These include the Unemployment Insurance Account, the Western Grain Stabilization Account, the Crop Reinsurance Account, the Agricultural Commodities Stabilization Accounts, and other specified purpose accounts. The February 1986 Budget changes also recorded the profits of the Exchange Fund Account on a current basis, concessionary loans to developing countries as budgetary expenditures and reported expenditures net of transactions internal to the Government.

With the release of these financial statements, the Government is introducing a number of additional accounting changes. These include the consolidation of the financial activities of certain Crown corporations, the establishment of an allowance for the actuarial deficiency of the indexed portion of the Government's employee pension accounts, and the establishment of an allowance for general contingencies in the light of evolving international strategies to address the international debt problem. These accounting changes are in response to the reservations expressed by the Auditor General on the Government's financial statements and address the recommendations of the Standing Committee on the Public Accounts. In addition, non-tax revenue is now being recorded on an accrual basis and outstanding federal bonds issued to the Canada Pension Plan Account are now classified as part of unmatured debt transactions rather than as part of non-budgetary transactions. The financial statements for prior years have been adjusted fully to reflect all these accounting changes.

1989-90 - THE YEAR IN RETROSPECT

This part presents an overview of the Government's financial operations. More details are provided under "Supplementary Financial Information" in this section and in the remainder of this volume.

The Deficit and Net Debt

The deficit for fiscal year 1989-90 was $28,996 million, an increase of $45 million from the 1988-89 deficit of $28,951 million and a decline of $9,516 million from the peak recorded in 1984-85. The increase in the deficit in 1989-90, from that recorded in 1988-89, was primarily due to the transitional impact of the June 1987 tax reform, affecting personal income tax collections, and the impact of higher interest rates on debt servicing costs, which were up $5,651 million, or 17.0%, over 1988-89. As a percentage of Gross Domestic Product (GDP), the deficit has declined from a peak of 8.7% in 1984-85 to 4.4% in 1989-90.

With the deficit increasing to $28,996 million in 1989-90, the accumulated deficit, or net debt, stood at $357,961 million as of March 31, 1990. This represents an increase of 8.8% above the March 31, 1989 level of $328,965 million, and marks only the second time in the past fifteen years that the growth in net debt has been less than 10%.

Table 1.1 sets out the deficit and net debt over the last ten fiscal years, both in absolute terms and as a percentage of GDP (GDP figures relate to the calendar years ending in those fiscal years). Chart A compares the rate of growth of net debt with the rate of growth of GDP for the last ten fiscal years. The data for prior years have been adjusted to incorporate the effects of the accounting changes outlined above.

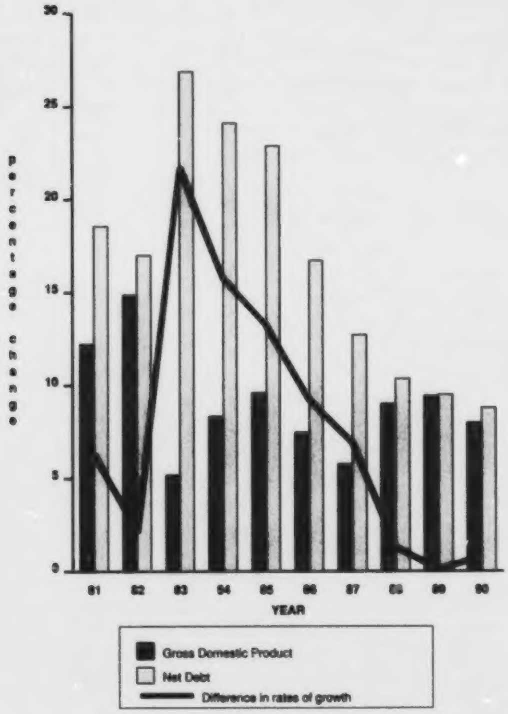
GROSS DOMESTIC PRODUCT AND NET DEBT



Factors Affecting the Deficit

The increase in the deficit in 1989-90 was primarily due to the transitional impact of the June 1987 tax reform, and the impact of interest rate developments on public debt charges. Interest rates rose significantly during the latter half of 1988-89 and remained high throughout 1989-90. Given the stock of debt, the compounding impact of these interest rate developments resulted in significantly higher public debt charges in 1989-90. Public debt charges increased by $5,651 million in 1989-90, an increase of 17.0%, following an advance of 14.3% in 1988-89. Largely offsetting the impact of this increase in public debt charges on the deficit were the effects of the continued strength in the economy and the discretionary policy actions introduced in past budgets, which increased budgetary revenues and restrained the growth in program spending.

Budgetary revenues in 1989-90 amounted to $113,707 million, an increase of 9.3% from the level reported in 1988-89. The increase in 1989-90 largely reflects the continued strength in the underlying tax bases, which has accompanied the growth in the economy, and fiscal measures introduced in past budgets, especially those introduced in the April 1989 Budget.

Personal income tax revenues, the largest component of budgetary revenues, increased by 12.8% in 1989-90, up significantly from the advance of only 2% recorded in 1988-89. The year-over-year increase in personal income tax revenues was distorted by the transitional impacts of tax reform. Personal income tax reform, which became effective January 1, 1988, significantly lowered the statutory tax rates, broadened the tax base by reducing tax preferences, and relieved an additional 850,000 lower-income tax Canadians from paying federal personal income tax through the conversion of tax exemptions into tax credits. As a result, despite a strong growth in employment and personal income, the overall increase in personal income tax revenues was significantly dampened in 1988-89 by the impact of tax reform. However, the results for fiscal year 1988-89 did not reflect the full impact of tax reform, as the withholding tables for source deductions were not changed until July 1, 1988. The delay in adjusting the withholding tables has resulted in larger tax refunds in 1989-90. This impact on personal income tax revenues, however, was offset by the one-time impact of the acceleration initiatives affecting source remittances from large employers and tax instalments from quarterly filers. Adjusting for the impact of these factors, the underlying growth in personal income tax revenues continued to reflect the strength in the economy.

Also contributing to the overall rise in budgetary revenues in 1989-90 were increases in corporate income tax revenue, excise taxes and duties and in non-tax revenue. Corporate income tax revenue rose 11%, despite a decline in corporate profits. The increase was largely attributable to the impact of tax reform introduced in 1988, the introduction of the Large Corporation Tax, and the one-time impact of the acceleration of tax instalment payments. Excise taxes and duties advanced by 9.3%, with most of the increase attributable to the increases in the tax rates introduced in the April 1989 Budget. Non-tax revenue increased by 11.9%, largely reflecting the one-time impact of the net proceeds from the sale of the Air Canada shares and the seigniorage from the sale of the new dollar coins. In contrast, unemployment insurance premium contributions declined by 4.7%, due solely to the reduction in the premium rates in calendar year 1989.

Total budgetary expenditures increased by 7.3% in 1989-90, up from the advance of 5.7% recorded in 1988-89. Of the nearly $10 billion increase in budgetary expenditures between 1988-89 and 1989-90, 58.3% was attributable to higher public debt charges. Public debt charges, which accounted for 27.2% of total budgetary expenditures in 1989-90, advanced by 17.0%. In contrast, program spending increased by 4.0% in 1989-90, well below the rate of growth in the economy and less than the increase in the rate of inflation, as measured by the consumer price index.

45% of the growth in program spending was attributable to a 6.0% increase in major transfers to persons. This component, which includes elderly benefit payments, unemployment insurance benefits and family allowances, among others, is largely demand-driven or formula-funded. The increase in 1989-90 largely reflects the impact of inflation on the indexation formula and to a lesser extent the changes in underlying population bases. Major transfers to other levels of government advanced by 5.5%, in large part due to increased transfer payments to lower-income provinces under the equalization program and for the cost-sharing social assistance programs under the Canada Assistance Plan. The April 1989 Budget reduction measures restrained the growth in spending in Defence and External Affairs and Aid, as well as in direct transfers to major Crown corporations. All other program spending increased by only 1.9%, largely due to developments in the agricultural and energy sectors, coupled with continued restraint measures affecting the operations of government.

Table 1.2 sets out the levels and changes in revenues, expenditures and the deficit over the last ten years.

Factors Affecting Financial Requirements

The Government's net financial requirements reflect not only the difference between budgetary revenues and expenditures, but also the net source of funds generated in non-budgetary transactions. In 1989-90, non-budgetary transactions provided the Government with a net source of funds amounting to $8,466 million, up $1,995 million from that provided in 1988-89. Most of the increase was due to the encashment in November 1988 of the accrued interest on the 1981 series of Canada Savings Bonds, which lowered the overall net source of funds in 1988-89.

With the deficit increasing by $45 million and a higher net source of funds from non-budgetary transactions of $1,995 million, financial requirements, excluding foreign exchange transactions, declined by $1,950 million to $20,530 million. In addition, there were $697 million of net requirements in 1989-90 for foreign exchange transactions, down considerably from the net requirement of $5,730 million in 1988-89. As a result, total financial requirements in 1989-90 were $21,227 million, down $6,983 million from 1988-89. The 1989-90 requirements were financed by unmatured debt transactions of $20,906 million ($28,510 million in 1988-89) and a drawdown in cash balances of $321 million. Cash balances at March 31, 1990 stood at $1,512 million.

Table 1.3 sets out the financial requirements over the last ten years, while Table 1.4 sets out the major components of non-budgetary transactions for the same period.

SUPPLEMENTARY FINANCIAL INFORMATION

This part provides a ten year comparative summary of the Government's financial transactions, both on the Public Accounts basis and on the National Accounts basis. The Public Accounts presentation reflects the accounting policies explained in Note 1 to the audited financial statements in Section 2 of this volume. The National Accounts presentation is designed primarily to facilitate economic analysis of the federal Government sector on a basis consistent with that used in measuring income and expenditure flows in the economy.

Public Accounts Presentation

The "Summary Statement of Transactions" (Table 1.5) provides aggregate data on the major categories of transactions under four main headings: budgetary, non-budgetary, foreign exchange and unmatured debt. The resulting cash position at the end of each year is also shown.

National Accounts Presentation

The National Income and Expenditure Accounts were developed as a basis for economic analysis of income and expenditure flows in the economy. The concepts and definitions applied to the Government sector are consistent with those applied to other sectors and follow international practices developed under the aegis of the United Nations. The economic nature of a transaction is the determining factor in its classification within the National Accounts framework.

In 1989-90, the National Accounts deficit increased by $1,688 million or 7.5% from the 1988-89 level. This reflects an 8.8% increase in revenue and an 8.6% increase in expenditure.

[1] These "National Accounts transactions" are consistent with those released by Statistics Canada on August 31, 1990.

Public Accounts and National Accounts Reconciliation

The reconciliation of transactions between the Public Accounts and National Accounts is set out in the table that follows. The major factors which give rise to the need for a reconciliation are listed below.

The deficits of Government business enterprises which are outside the Government accounting entity are, for Public Accounts presentation purposes, met through budgetary appropriations and are thus recorded as budgetary expenditure. In the National Accounts presentation, these deficits are netted against Government investment income.

Revenue in the Public Accounts is recorded on a cash basis with the exception of non-tax revenue . While the major portion of National Accounts revenue is accounted for on a cash basis, certain items, such as corporate income taxes and the oil export charges, are reported on an accrual basis. This difference also results in a different treatment of the acceleration of source deductions and sales and excise taxes by large firms.

Transactions of employee pension accounts are treated as non-budgetary in the Public Accounts, although the Government's contributions to, and interest payments on, these accounts are included in expenditure. Employer and employee contributions to these accounts, plus any related interest income, form part of Government revenue in the National Accounts presentation, and pension payments form part of Government expenditure.

In the Public Accounts presentation, the purchase of capital assets such as buildings and machinery is recorded as a budgetary expenditure in the year of acquisition. Only newly produced capital assets and capital expenditures are included in National Accounts expenditure. The National Accounts also ignore the sale of capital assets as such sales are not deemed to give rise to production. Both Government revenue and expenditure include an allowance for the depreciation of capital assets in the National Accounts termed "Capital consumption allowance". This item is not a part of Public Accounts reporting.

Both the Public Accounts and the National Accounts include the financial activities of consolidated Crown corporations, however, the inclusions are not identical.

PREFACE TO THE AUDITED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS OF THE GOVERNMENT OF CANADA

The fundamental purpose of the financial statements is to provide information to Parliament, and thus to the public, to facilitate an understanding and evaluation of the full nature and extent of the financial affairs and resources for which the Government is responsible. The financial statements reflect the financial position of the Government at the reporting date, as well as its results of operations, financial requirements and changes in financial position for the year.

The two basic concepts underlying the Government's accounting system are found in the Constitution Acts: first, the concept of the Consolidated Revenue Fund, which states that all duties and revenues received, other than those reserved to the provinces, "shall form One Consolidated Revenue Fund"; second, the concept that the balance of the Fund, after certain prior charges, "shall be appropriated by the Parliament of Canada".

The financial statements consist of five statements and accompanying notes. The first statement is the Statement of Transactions, which shows the extent to which cash going out from the Government exceeded cash coming in (financial requirements), and the resulting net new borrowing. The financial transactions are classified into the following categories:

- The first category, budgetary, consists of all the transactions with outside parties which enter into the calculation of the annual deficit or surplus of the Government, that is, tax and non-tax revenue, together with expenditures.

- The second category, non-budgetary, consists of transactions in loans, investments and advances, in liabilities for the administration of certain public money received or collected for special purposes, and in other liabilities, other than those related to foreign exchange and unmatured debt.

- The third category, foreign exchange, reflects transactions in international reserves held in the Exchange Fund Account (the principal objective of which is to aid in the control and protection of the external value of the Canadian dollar) together with an accounting of the net position of the Government with respect to the International Monetary Fund. Foreign exchange transactions include unmatured debt payable in foreign currencies.

- The fourth category, unmatured debt, represents the extent to which financial requirements have been met through the increase in unmatured debt, that is, the net change in amounts owing for marketable bonds, Canada savings bonds, special non-marketable bonds issued to the Canada Pension Plan Investment Fund and Treasury bills. Unmatured debt transactions exclude unmatured debt payable in foreign currencies.

The second statement is the Statement of Accumulated Deficit, which reflects the net accumulation of annual deficits and surpluses since Confederation. Because of the accounting changes introduced this year on a retroactive basis , the accumulated deficit at the beginning of the year, shown for 1989 and 1990, has been restated.

The third statement is the Statement of Revenue and Expenditure, which details the Government's revenue and expenditure (results of operations) for the year.

The fourth statement is the Statement of Assets and Liabilities. This statement measures the Government's cash balances and investments, together with amounts owing to and by the Government at the end of the year.The statement differs in some ways from the conventional balance sheet of the private sector. Fixed assets, having been accounted for as expenditures, are reported at the nominal value of $1, and tax revenues not yet received are not recorded as assets. It should be noted, therefore, that the difference between total financial assets and total liabilities is simply the aggregate of annual budgetary deficits and surpluses determined in accordance with the accounting policies of the Government.

The fifth statement is the Statement of Changes in Financial Position, which provides information on the Government's cash requirements for operating and investing activities, and how these activities were financed.

Other sections in this volume, together with Volumes II and III of the Public Accounts, are designed to provide more detailed information supporting the financial statements.

STATEMENT OF RESPONSIBILITY

The financial statements in this section were prepared by the Government of Canada in accordance with the accounting policies set out in Note 1 to the statements and, except for the changes in accounting policies as explained in Note 3, on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Responsibility for the integrity and objectivity of the financial statements rests with the Government. The financial statements are prepared under the joint direction of the President of the Treasury Board, the Minister of Finance, and the Receiver General for Canada, in compliance with governing legislation. The financial statements are generally prepared on an accrual basis of accounting; a notable exception is that tax revenues are reported on a cash basis. Furthermore, fixed assets are charged to budgetary expenditure at the time of acquisition or construction. The information included in these financial statements is based on the Government's best estimates and judgement, with due consideration given to materiality.

To fulfill its accounting and reporting responsibilities, the Government maintains systems of financial management and internal control which give due consideration to costs, benefits and risks, and which are designed to provide reasonable assurance that transactions are properly authorized by Parliament, are executed in accordance with prescribed regulations, and are properly recorded so as to maintain accountability of public money and safeguard the assets and properties of Canada under Government administration. The Receiver General for Canada maintains the accounts of Canada, a centralized record of the Government's financial transactions, and obtains additional information as required, from departments, agencies and Crown corporations, to meet accounting and reporting requirements.

The Auditor General of Canada provides an independent opinion on the financial statements prepared by the Government. The duties of the Auditor General in that respect are set out in Section 6 of the Auditor General Act which states in part that the Auditor General "shall express his opinion as to whether they (the financial statements) present fairly information in accordance with stated accounting policies of the federal government and on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year together with any reservations he may have".

Annually, the financial statements are tabled in Parliament as part of the Public Accounts, and are referred to the Standing Committee on Public Accounts, which reports to Parliament on the results of its examination together with any recommendations it may have with respect to the financial statements and accompanying audit opinion.

On behalf of the Government of Canada.

J.A. MACDONALD Comptroller General of Canada	FREDERICK W. GORBET Deputy Minister of Finance	ALAN G. ROSS Acting Deputy Receiver General for Canada

Notes to the Financial Statements of the Government of Canada

1. Significant Accounting Policies

i. Government of Canada reporting entity

For the purpose of reporting in these financial statements, the Government of Canada is defined as all organizations which are accountable for the administration of their affairs and resources either to a Minister of the Government or directly to Parliament, and which are owned or controlled by the Government.

ii. Method of accounting for Government organizations

Except for Government enterprises, all Government organizations are accounted in the financial statements by consolidation. Government enterprises are accounted for by the cost method and are defined to be those corporate organizations that sell goods and services to individuals and non-government organizations as their principal activity, and are not appropriation-dependent.

iii. Classification of financial transactions

The financial transactions of the Government, as recorded in the accounts of Canada and reported in the Public Accounts, are classified into budgetary, non-budgetary, foreign exchange and unmatured debt transactions.

In general terms, budgetary transactions enter into the calculation of the annual deficit or surplus and are reported on the Statements of Revenue and Expenditure and Accumulated Deficit. All other transactions lead to the acquisition or disposal of financial claims or to the creation or discharge of financial obligations, and are disclosed on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities.

For purposes of reporting, the Public Accounts uses the classification in force at the end of the year to which the report refers and amounts for the previous year are reclassified retroactively to conform to the current year's presentation.

iv. Budgetary transactions

REVENUE

Revenue consists of all tax and non-tax amounts which affect the annual deficit or surplus of the Government.

The Government generally reports tax revenue in the year in which it is received. Refunds of tax revenue are allocated to the year in which the processing cycle for the assessment of the related tax return has been started.

Tax revenue is reported net of refunds, and excludes taxes collected on behalf of provinces and territories, and amounts credited to other liability accounts.

Non-tax revenue is now reported in the year in which the transactions or events occurred that gave rise to the revenue and may also include charges related to the provision for non-tax accounts receivable.

On the Statement of Revenue and Expenditure, revenue is reported both gross and net. The difference between the two is revenue from outside parties credited to appropriations and revenue of consolidated Crown corporations credited to expenditure.

EXPENDITURE

Expenditure consists of all charges to budgetary appropriations which affect the annual deficit or surplus of the Government. Such charges include those for work performed, goods received, services rendered, and transfer payments made, during the year, and include accounts payable at year end. Expenditure may also include charges related to the allowance for valuation of loans, investments, and advances, the allowances for general contingencies, the allowance for borrowings of agent enterprise Crown corporations, and other accounts payable and allowances.

On the Statement of Revenue and Expenditure, expenditure is reported both gross and net. The difference between the two is revenue from outside parties credited to appropriations and revenue of consolidated Crown corporations credited to expenditure.

v. Assets

Assets are defined as the financial claims acquired by the Government on outside organizations and individuals as a result of events and transactions that occurred during the year.

However, as a result of the Government's accounting policies described above, certain financial claims are not reported on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities. The most important of these are accounts receivable, net of refunds payable, for tax revenue.

vi. Liabilities

Liabilities are defined as the financial obligations of the Government to outside organizations and individuals as a result of events and transactions that occurred during the year.

The borrowings of all enterprise corporations which are agents of the Crown are recorded as a liability of the Government, net of borrowings expected to be repaid directly by these corporations.

vii. Fixed assets

The fixed assets of the Government, which include land, engineering structures and works (such as canals, harbours and roads), buildings, and machinery and equipment, are charged to budgetary expenditure at the time of acquisition or construction. Their existence, however, is acknowledged on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities by reporting them at the nominal value of $1.

viii. Valuation of assets and liabilities

ASSETS

Assets are recorded at cost and are subject to annual valuation to reflect reductions from the recorded value to the estimated realizable value. In the case of loans to sovereign states, the Government views these loans as collectible unless formally repudiated by the debtor. The allowance for valuation includes reductions from the recorded value of loans (and subscriptions to international organizations that make similar loans) with significant concessionary terms.

The Government's gold reserves are included in the International reserves held in the Exchange Fund Account and are recorded and valued at the Canadian dollar equivalent of 35 Special Drawing Rights per fine ounce. The Special Drawing Right is an international currency created by the International Monetary Fund, and allocated to countries participating in its Special Drawing Rights Department. It represents a unit of account defined in terms of a "basket" of five major currencies.

LIABILITIES

Liabilities are recorded at the amounts ultimately payable. Liabilities for termination benefits, the superannuation plans, and the Government Annuities Account are reported on an actuarial basis. For the basic superannuation accounts, actuarial deficiencies are amortized, surpluses are not.

ix. Allowances for general contingencies

The Government establishes allowances in respect of potential debt or debt service relief measures for financially troubled countries under multilateral agreements.

x. Translation of foreign currency transactions

Foreign currency transactions are translated and recorded in Canadian dollar equivalents at the exchange rates prevailing at the transaction dates.

Assets and liabilities resulting from foreign currency transactions are, in turn, reported at year-end closing rates of exchange; net gains are credited to revenue, while net losses are charged to expenditure.

2. Authorities for Transactions

Revenue can be raised and moneys can be borrowed only with the authority of Parliament. All receipts of money by departments and agencies must be deposited into the Consolidated Revenue Fund (CRF). All disbursements from the CRF for spending on operations, for loans, investments and advances, and for the redemption of matured debt, must be authorized by Parliament.

i. Authority for raising revenues

The right of Canada to raise taxes and revenues is contained in the Constitution Acts, and is given specific form in various Acts passed by Parliament. The Financial Administration Act provides general statutory direction regarding the collection, handling and accounting for receipts and contains authority for charging for services or use of facilities. The right of the Government to raise income taxes, excise taxes and duties, tariffs, fines and other revenues and the methods to be used are granted by Parliament in specific legislation related to the type of levy or to ministerial duties and authorities. All bills for the raising of money must originate in the House of Commons and are submitted to the House by the Government. This is normally done through the Minister of Finance's Budget, in which proposed tax and tariff changes required to attain the forecast fiscal policy goals are presented.

ii. Authority for spending on operations

Parliament provides authority to make payments out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund in annual appropriation acts and other statutes (the latter referred to as statutory appropriations). Most Government spending is under statutory authorities, that is authorities which do not generally impose an annual limit on the amount that may be spent. Spending is authorized by reference to statutory formulae or criteria and the authorities usually continue from year to year until changed or rescinded by an act of Parliament. Spending authority provided by statutory appropriations is for specified purposes and for such amounts and such time as the acts prescribe. Spending authority provided by statutory appropriations generally does not lapse at the end of the year in which it was granted. Spending authority granted in appropriation acts is for stated purposes and maximum amounts. Unless provided for in vote wording, unused spending authority granted in appropriation acts lapses at the end of the year for which it was granted. Some authorities continue from year to year and some authorize the respending, within a program, of defined categories of revenue generated by the program.

iii. Authority for loans, investments and advances

These authorities limit the amount of loans, investments or advances that may be made. Unused authority may lapse at the end of a year or may continue from year to year. Non-lapsing authorities often limit only the total of loans that may be outstanding at any one time; thus principal repaid may be reloaned.

iv. Borrowing authority

The Government can borrow only as authorized by acts of Parliament. Borrowing authority acts provide authority for the net amount of new security issues less redemptions during a fiscal year. The authorities lapse at the end of the year except for amounts specifically carried forward to the next fiscal year. Parliament has also provided a continuing authority to the Government under Section 47 of the Financial Administration Act to borrow, for periods not exceeding six months, such amounts as are deemed necessary to meet lawfully authorized disbursements.

Crown corporations (corporations wholly owned by the Crown) that are agents of Her Majesty also may borrow only as authorized by acts of Parliament. Such acts usually place a ceiling on the amount of borrowings that can be outstanding at any one time. Non-agent Crown corporations can borrow without specific parliamentary authority. Non-agent borrowings are sometimes guaranteed by the Government with the authority of Parliament.

3. Changes in Accounting Policies

In 1990, changes have been made in accounting policies for certain assets and liabilities, and in the definition of the accounting entity. An allowance for the actuarial liability for the indexed part of employee pensions is now recorded, additional specified purpose accounts are now consolidated, and the separate financial statements of certain Crown corporations are now consolidated with the financial statements of the Government. Allowances for valuation of assets and for borrowings of agent enterprise Crown corporations now include general contingencies as described in Note 1(ix). In addition, non-tax revenues are now recorded on an accrual basis, and government debt held by the Canada Pension Plan has been reclassified from unmatured debt to specified purpose accounts.

These changes have been authorized by the President of the Treasury Board and the Minister of Finance under Section 64 (2) (d) of the Financial Administration Act. Such changes are applied retroactively,with restatement of the previous year's deficit and accumulated deficit, for consistency.

The effect of the changes made in 1990, on the accumulated deficit at the beginning of the year and on the annual deficit, is as follows:

i. Effect of changes on the accumulated deficit at the beginning of the year

4. Spending and Borrowing Authorities

i. Source and disposition of spending authorities

The following table summarizes the authorities made available by Parliament and used by the Government for expenditure, and loans, investments and advances.

	(in millions of dollars)
	1990		1989
	Expenditure (budgetary)	Loans, investments and advances (non-budgetary)	Expenditure (budgetary)	Loans, investments and advances (non-budgetary)
Used in the current year	131,945	487	122,064	1,035

Details can be found in Tables 1 and 2, Section 1 of Volume II (Part I) of the Public Accounts.

ii. Reconciliation of expenditure authority

The use of budgetary authority as reported in the above table differs from net total expenditure reported on the Statement of Revenue and Expenditure. Certain specified purpose accounts and certain Crown corporations are consolidated in the Government's financial statements but are not included in the budgetary authorities available for use as shown above. In addition, the authorities above do not include the provision for valuation of assets and liabilities, which is authorized by Section 63 of the Financial Administration Act. These differences are summarized below.

	(in millions of dollars)
	1990	1989
Use of budgetary authority per above table	131,945	122,064
Effect of consolidating certain specified purpose accounts—

Net total expenditure per the Statement of Revenue and Expenditure	142,703	133,018

Details of consolidated specified purpose accounts and consolidated Crown corporations can be found in Section 5 of this volume.

[1] In the current year, $1,375 million ($2,184 million in 1989) was provided for, and $660 million ($111 million in 1989) was written-off. The effect on the provision of -$50 million ($100 million in 1989) due to the consolidation of Crown corporations is not included in this figure but is included as part of the figure on the effect of consolidating Crown corporations.

iii. Overexpenditure of spending authority

The following votes were overexpended. Most of the amounts overexpended represented debts incurred but not paid at the fiscal year end. In the subsequent fiscal year, spending authority for each equivalent appropriation is reduced by the amount of those debts.

	(in millions of dollars) 1990
National Defence
Vote 1 - Operating expenditures	66
Vote 5 - Capital expenditures	45
Transport
Vote 5 - Capital expenditures	20

Details can be found in the ministerial sections of Volume II (Part I) of the Public Accounts.

iv. Borrowing authorities

The following table shows the borrowing authorities available and the use of such authorities reconciled to the change in unmatured debt as reported on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities.

	(in millions of dollars)
	1990				1989

Total use of borrowing authorities		18,747				26,260

[1] Authorizes the Government to borrow, for a fixed period not exceeding six months, amounts necessary to ensure that the Consolidated Revenue Fund will be sufficient to meet lawfully authorized disbursements.

5. Refundable Tax Credits

Entitlements to refundable tax credits are claimed on personal and corporate income tax returns. Claims are settled either by reducing the tax liability for the year or, if no liability exists, by issuing a "refund" cheque. In either case, income tax revenues are reduced, even where no tax had been paid. Had the tax reductions and direct payments due to child tax credits been reported as expenditures, gross total expenditure and personal tax revenue would have increased respectively by $2,444 million ($1,598 million in 1989). Likewise, had the tax reductions and direct payments due to the sales tax credit been reported as expenditures, gross total expenditure and personal tax revenue would have increased respectively by $542 million ($286 million in 1989). Finally, had the tax reductions due to the investment tax credit been reported as expenditures, gross total expenditure and personal and corporate tax revenue would have increased respectively by $160 million ($160 million in 1989).

6. Presentation of Expenditure by Standard Object

7. Transfer Payments and Other Program Expenditures

i. Transfer payments

The Government makes transfer payments to persons, other levels of government, enterprises and non-profit institutions, and international organizations and foreign countries.

Payments to persons essentially constitute an income security framework. Individuals are provided with assistance because of their age (Old Age Security and Family Allowance), because they are temporarily unemployed (Unemployment Insurance), or for other specific purposes.

Payments to other levels of government encompass numerous transfer programs operated by the federal Government under various statutory authorities. The programs are both general and specific in purpose, and include equalization payments and payments for health care, education, and grants in lieu of taxes.

Payments to enterprises include agricultural subsidies for freight, grain storage, oil and gas subsidies for offshore development, incentives, oil import compensation, and freight rate subsidies to railway and transportation companies under various statutory acts.

Payments are made to international organizations that provide development assistance, military protection, and satellite communications. Payments to foreign countries are for official development assistance in the purchase of goods and services. As well, food aid payments are made to international institutions for the benefit of recipients in developing countries.

Payments to non-profit institutions are to universities in aid of research, to non-profit organizations for research and development, and to various national organizations.

The following tables present a summary of transfer payments as classified in the Statement of Revenue and Expenditure and by class of recipients:

	(in millions of dollars)

8. Accumulated Deficit

In accordance with its stated accounting policies, revenues and expenditures of certain specified purpose accounts and Crown corporations are included in the revenue and expenditure of the Government. However, enabling legislation requires that the revenues of specified purpose accounts be earmarked and that related payments be charged against such revenue. Any deficiency of payments over revenue must, in accordance with enabling legislation, be met through future revenue of these specified purpose accounts. The table below presents the balances of these specified purpose accounts and the retained earnings of the consolidated Crown corporations included in the accumulated deficit:

	(in millions of dollars)

Details of the consolidated accounts can be found in Section 5 of this volume.

9. Enterprise Crown Corporations

As disclosed in Note 1(ii), the assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses reported in the separate financial statements of enterprise Crown corporations are not consolidated in the Government's financial statements. Loans and investments in enterprise Crown corporations are accounted for by the cost method.

The following tables separately summarize the assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses of the enterprise Crown corporations. All identified transactions and balances between the enterprise Crown corporations and the Government have been reported in the tables.

The tables present the financial transactions and results of operations of the enterprise Crown corporations in accordance with their respective accounting policies. Most enterprise Crown corporations follow generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) used by private sector companies. One significant difference between GAAP and the Government's basis of accounting is that under GAAP, non-financial assets such as buildings, machinery, equipment and inventories are reflected as assets and written off over their respective lives or as they are consumed or used. The Government treats the acquisition of non-financial assets as expenditures in the year of acquisition. For those enterprise Crown corporations whose year-end is March 31, the data are based on audited financial statements. For those corporations having other year-ends, the data are based on unaudited interim financial statements which have been prepared on a basis consistent with their most recent audited financial statements.

The corporate financial statements of each enterprise and other consolidated Crown corporation are reproduced in Volume III.

Details can be found in Section 6 of this volume

[1] Of the net income of Crown corporations, $2,402 million ($2,009 million in 1989) has been remitted to the Government and is included in revenue and the deficit.

In 1989-90, 14,343 common shares having a par value of $1,434.3 million were surrendered by the Government to Petro-Canada for cancellation. The surrender was authorized by the Government by PC 1990-302 dated February 21, 1990. The reduction in share capital due to the cancellation of the shares by Petro-Canada was offset by an increase in corporate retained earnings. This increase was used to absorb the effects of a write-down in book value of Petro-Canada's net assets resulting from the adoption of the successful efforts method of accounting. The Government believes that the change in accounting method does not indicate an impairment in the market value of Petro-Canada. As a consequence, and because the Government continues to own 100% of the Corporation, no adjustment has been made in 1989-90 to the net recorded value of the Government's investment in Petro-Canada.

10. International Development Assistance—Loans, Subscriptions, Contingent Liabilities and Commitments

i. Loans to developing countries

Included in loans to National governments of $3,495 million ($4,191 million in 1989) are loans to developing countries of $2,369 million ($3,048 million in 1989). These loans arise from agreements signed with developing countries before April 1, 1986, are part of Canada's international development assistance program and are either interest-free or bear interest at rates that were more favourable than those prevailing in Canada at the time the assistance was provided. All loans disbursed after April 1,1986 have been treated as budgetary expenditures. The balances outstanding at March 31, grouped by term, are:

Original term	Grace period before repayment commences	Interest rate	(in millions of dollars) 1990	1989

* Interest-free.

(1) Rescheduled loans.

These loans, by their terms, confer financial benefits on the recipients and have been fully provided for in the allowance for valuation. Details can be found in Section 6 of this volume.

ii. Subscriptions and loans to international organizations

Included in loans, investments and advances--International organizations of $4,666 million ($4,621 million in 1989) are subscriptions to the capital of the International Development Association and loans to other international financial institutions of $4,007 million ($4,014 million in 1989) which are also part of Canada's development assistance program. These institutions make loans to developing countries on terms similar to those described in sub-section i. Subscriptions to international organizations do not provide a return on investment but are repayable on termination of the organization or on withdrawal therefrom. Details can be found in Section 6 of this volume.

Loans, investments and advances--International organizations are presented net after deduction of notes payable of $1,882 million ($1,907 million in 1989), including $1,852 million ($1,852 million in 1989) of notes payable to the aforementioned Association and institutions. The notes are non-interest bearing, are non-negotiable, but are payable on demand, although they are normally encashed over periods of up to seven years, according to the financial requirements of the institutions.

Included in the allowance for valuation is an amount of $2,155 million ($2,162 million in 1989) equal to the net position of the Government vis-à-vis these institutions.

iii. Contingent liabilities and commitments

The Government of Canada has entered into agreements with certain international organizations and other sovereign nations under which it commits to disburse funds in future years for specified purposes. Included in this type of commitment are lines of credit issued to international development institutions that may be drawn upon to finance future lending, as well as loans to national governments that have been approved by Parliament but not yet disbursed. These commitments amounted to $1,676 million at March 31, 1990 ($1,776 million at March 31, 1989). In addition, the Government has contingent liabilities relating to subscriptions it has made to purchase additional shares of certain international development institutions when requested by these institutions. These contingent liabilities amounted to $12,730 million at March 31,1990 ($11,686 million at March 31, 1989).

Details on international development assistance commitments and contingent liabilities can be found in Section 6 of this volume. Contractual commitments related to fixed assets, purchases, operating leases and capital leases are discussed separately in Note 15. Note 17 discloses additional contingent liabilities of the Government of Canada as at March 31, 1990.

11. Gold

Included in International reserves held in the Exchange Fund Account of $15,393 million ($17,422 million in 1989) are Canada's gold holdings of 15.92 million fine ounces with a recorded value of $848 million (17.018 million fine ounces with a recorded value of $919 million in 1989).

Gold is valued at the Canadian dollar equivalent of 35 Special Drawing Rights (SDRs) per fine ounce, which approximates its cost in foreign currency terms. At March 31, 1990, the Canadian dollar equivalent of 35 SDRs was $53.25 per fine ounce ($53.99 per fine ounce in 1989). The SDR is a unit of account used by the International Monetary Fund and is valued in terms of a "basket" of five major currencies.

Alternative bases of valuation could be used to value gold. On a market value basis ($430.96 per fine ounce in 1990, $456.97 in 1989), the recorded value would have been $6,861 million ($7,777 million in 1989). On the basis of estimated average cost in Canadian dollars at historical rates of exchange $36.91 per fine ounce in both 1990 and 1989, the recorded value would have been $588 million ($628 million in 1989). Further details can be found in the financial statements of the Exchange Fund Account, included in Section 9 of this volume.

12. Canada Pension Plan

Under existing legislation, benefits and costs incurred in the administration of the Canada Pension Plan are financed from contributions from employees, employers and self-employed persons, and from interest from the investment of contributions not immediately needed for benefits and costs. Although the Canada Pension Plan was established under federal legislation, the Plan is under the joint control of the Government and the provinces. Any province or group of provinces having 1/3 of the population of Canada can veto any amendment to the Canada Pension Plan that affects the level of contributions or benefits. The Government's authority to pay benefits under the Plan is limited to the balance in the Canada Pension Plan Account which was $39,445 million at March 31, 1990. Therefore, in accordance with the accounting policies of the Government, the revenues and expenditures of the Plan have not been reported with those of the Government.

In 1990, revenues of the Canada Pension Plan Account were $11.5 billion ($10.2 billion in 1989) and expenditures were $9.6 billion ($8.6 billion in 1989). The balance of the Canada Pension Plan Account is $39.4 billion at March 31, 1990 ($37.6 billion at March 31, 1989). Funds in excess of estimated current operating requirements ($36.5 billion at March 31, 1990; $35.1 billion at March 31, 1989) are available for investments in securities of the provinces, territories and of the Government, on the basis of contributions from the jurisdiction to total contributions to the Account.

A long-term funding objective of approximately two years of benefits has been set for the Plan by the establishment of a 25 year schedule of contribution rates starting January 1, 1987. The first 5 years require an annual .2 percentage points shared increase to the initial employer-employee contribution rate of 3.6% of contributory earnings. Contribution rates for the 20 subsequent years involve shared increases of .15 percentage points and are subject to quinquennial federal-provincial reviews. The financial statements of the Account are reproduced in Section 7 of this volume.

13. Superannuation Accounts

The Superannuation accounts liability includes the related specified purpose accounts as well as a supplementary allowance (described in Note 3) used to record any shortfall in the benefit obligations as determined on an actuarial basis.

The Government sponsors defined benefit pension plans for substantially all its full-time employees, principally members of the Public Service, the Canadian Forces and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP).

Basic pensions are mostly based on the best 6 years average earnings and are accrued at the rate of 2 percent of average salary per year of service. Benefits are limited, the maximum being seventy percent of final average earnings. Basic pensions are indexed annually (on January 1) to the cost of living under authority of the Supplementary Retirement Benefits Act.

The employee contribution for these basic benefits is 6 1/2 % of pay, less contributions to the Canada or Quebec Pension Plan. In addition, employees contribute 1% of pay towards indexing. For basic benefits, the employer matches the prior year's employee contributions for members of the Public Service, and contributes 1.8 and 2 times current year's contributions for members of the Canadian Forces and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police respectively. Indexation contributions are matched.

The Public Service Superannuation Act also covers the employees of certain Crown corporations, agencies and other institutions. The pension obligations for Crown corporations covered by the Public Service Superannuation Act are limited to matching their employees' contributions; any actuarial deficiency is borne by the Government.

Contributions are credited to the superannuation accounts. The basic superannuation accounts earn interest at rates that are based on the Government of Canada long-term bond rates. The interest rate earned by the basic accounts was about 11% in both 1990 and 1989. The indexation account is credited with interest based on five year Government of Canada bond rates. The rate in 1990 was 9.8% (9.6% in 1989).

Pension obligations exist with respect to several other pension plans. The most significant of which cover all members of Parliament and federally appointed judges.

All basic pension plans are valued on an actuarial basis. The indexing element of the Government's pension plan is valued in its accounts on a pay as you go basis with a supplementary allowance used to record any shortfall as determined on an actuarial basis.

As required under the Public Pensions Reporting Act, actuarial valuations are performed triennially using the projected benefit method prorated on services. The most recent actuarial valuation for each plan was prepared and tabled as follows: Public Service Pension Plan was as at December 31, 1986, the Canadian Forces was as at December 31, 1987, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the Federally appointed Judges and the Members of Parliament retiring allowances was as at December 31, 1985. The accrued benefit obligations are determined on an actuarial basis and incorporate management's best estimates of future economic events, such as inflation rates, interest rates and wages and salary increases. The expected long-term inflation rate beginning in 8 years is 3.5%.

The following table discloses pension and related interest costs charged to expenditure in 1989-90.

[1] Interest on pension accounts is stated, where applicable, net of amortization of actuarial deficiencies. Interest charged to the public debt represents the total of the two amounts.

Details of the Accounts are reproduced in Section 7 of this volume.

The pension expenditure is included in the Statement of Revenue and Expenditure as a component of other program expenditures. The pension interest expenditure is included in the public debt expenditure.

The Government promises to meet all superannuation obligations arising from it's sponsored plans but separate funds are not maintained.

Foreign currency amounts are translated to the Canadian dollar equivalent at year end. At year end, foreign currency borrowings included the following:

[1] The 1990 and 1989 Canadian $ equivalent is comprised of the conversion of Yen debt 140,000 million and 1,086 million U.S. dollar swap risks.

The Government has entered into interest rate and currency swap agreements to facilitate management of the risks associated with its interest rate and foreign currency exposure. An interest rate swap agreement involves the making of interest payments on a variable rate basis against an assumed principal for the duration of the original issue. A currency swap agreement is an exchange of debt into another currency until maturity, when repayment is made in the original currency.

Substantially all the debt of the Government is issued at fixed rates. However at March 31, 1990, the Government had interest swap agreements of U.S.$950 million and CDN$3,850 million in notional principal. Under these agreements which expire between 1990 and 1999, fixed interest rate commitments have been converted to variable rates (tied to LIBOR or Banker's Acceptance).

The Government has also entered into currency swap agreements thereby converting future exchange risks of 180,000 million Yen debt to U.S. $1,086 million debt.

The interest to be paid or interest received on all swap transactions is recorded as part of the public debt in the Statement of Revenue and Expenditure.

15. Contractual Commitments

A contractual commitment represents a written obligation to outside organizations or individuals as a result of a contract. The nature of the Government's activities requires it to enter into contracts that are significant in relation to its current financial position or that will materially affect the level of future expenditure. Major capital assets of the Government are either purchased outright or leased. Where a lease transfers substantially all of the benefits and risks incidental to ownership of the property to the lessee it is considered a capital lease. All other leases are classified as operating leases. Contractual commitments can be classified into four categories: fixed assets, purchases, operating leases and capital leases.

All contractual commitments of $100 million or more per project are reported in the case of fixed assets, purchases and operating leases. In the case of capital leases, all capital lease arrangements with total minimum lease payments remaining at year end in excess of $1 million per contract are reported.

The Government's commitments with respect to international development assistance are discussed separately in Note 10 (iii).

The following amounts represent contractual commitments including those of consolidated Crown corporations where indicated at March 31, 1990 which will result in substantial outlays in future years.

16. Insurance Programs

Three Crown corporations operate insurance programs as agents of Her Majesty. The insurance programs are intended to operate on a self-sustaining basis but in the event that such corporations do not have sufficient funds to meet their obligations, the Government provides the required financing through appropriations, either budgetary or non-budgetary. The Government is of the opinion that no allowance need be established in its financial statements for these insurance programs.

The Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation (CDIC) provides insurance on deposits with member banks and trust and loan companies for up to $60,000 per depositor per institution. Total insured deposits at March 31, 1990 were $233,022 million ($245,123 million at March 31, 1989). The CDIC registered a profit for the twelve month period ended March 31, 1990 of $174 million ($74 million in 1989). The deficiency of the CDIC's Deposit Insurance Fund at March 31, 1990 was $888 million ($1,062 million at March 31, 1989). The deficiency has been funded in part by loans from the Government of $1,375 million at March 31, 1990 ($1,695 million at March 31, 1989). Amendments to the CDIC Act effective June 30, 1987, allow for premium levels to be set by the Governor in Council, at amounts not to exceed 1/6 of 1% of insured deposits. Other amendments allow for premium surcharges in risk situations and raise the loan limits from the Consolidated Revenue Fund from $1.5 billion to $3 billion. The Government is of the opinion that, based on current information, this restructuring will allow CDIC, over time, to eliminate its deficiency without budgetary support from the Government.

The Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation administers the Mortgage Insurance Fund (MIF). The MIF provides insurance for mortgage lending on Canadian housing by private institutions. Insurance in force at March 31, 1990 was $49,830 million ($45,600 million at March 31, 1989). The MIF had income for the year ended March 31, 1990 of $165 million ($179 million in 1989). The surplus of the MIF at March 31, 1990 was $83 million ($82 million deficiency at March 31, 1989). Budgetary financial assistance is provided by the Government only to the extent that internally generated funds are insufficient to support cash outflows. In this regard, the MIF's recent excess of receipts over disbursements has resulted in investments in securities of $568 million at March 31, 1990 ($511 million in 1989).

The Export Development Corporation provides export and foreign investment insurance for the purpose of facilitating and developing export trade. Insurance in force at March 31, 1990 was $4,326 million ($3,496 million in 1989). The Corporation's premium revenues have been adequate to provide for the full costs of claims experienced to date and to establish an allowance for possible future claims based on past claims experience.

This information has not been audited since the information provided is derived from interim financial statements of the three corporations. The most recent annual financial statements of these corporations and their insurance funds can be found in Volume III of the Public Accounts. Details of the transactions for these three insurance programs for the year ended March 31, 1990 can be found in Section 11 of this volume.

17. Contingent Liabilities of the Government of Canada

A contingent liability is a potential liability which may become an actual liability when one or more future events occurs or fails to occur. The contingent liabilities of the Government consist of explicit guarantees and potential losses arising from pending and threatened litigation relating to claims and assessments in respect of breach of contract, damages to persons and property, and like items.

The Government has 6 comprehensive native land claims under negotiation which is the maximum number that may be negotiated at any one time. Two of these claims are awaiting ratification and one has been agreed to in principle. Should all 3 be ratified and the legislation for the settlement thereof be enacted, the Government of Canada would be liable to pay financial compensation of $1.4 billion which would come due and payable over a number of years. In addition to the compensation payments, the settlement of these 3 claims would lead to implementation costs, estimated to be $600 million, over the next ten years.

An additional 19 comprehensive native claims have been validated and are awaiting negotiation. A total of 72 specific native claims were also at various stages of the negotiation process as at March 31, 1990. A further 203 specific claims were under review to determine their acceptability for negotiation pursuant to the provisions of the policy on specific claims. The amount of claims for land, financial and other benefits cannot be determined, therefore no amount for such claims is included in contingent liabilities. Failure to reach an acceptable agreement could lead to future litigation cases which would then be reported as contingent liabilities.

The Government's contingent liabilities with respect to international development assistance are discussed separately in Note 10 (iii).

The contingent liabilities of the Government including those of consolidated Crown corporations as at March 31, 1990 amounted to $19,000 million and are summarized in the following table:

Details can be found in Section 11 of this volume.

(1) Less than $500,000.

(2) A letter of comfort has been issued with respect to credit grain sales by the Canadian Wheat Board. The letter states that the Government will assume responsibility for the liabilities arising from defaults in payments by countries purchasing Canadian grain on credit. Receivables under this guarantee amounted to approximately $4.2 billion at March 31,1990 ($3.7 billion in 1989).

(3) Includes $7.7 billion ($1.5 billion in 1989) related to native statutory and treaty obligations. This amount represents plaintiffs' claims in 73 (60 in 1989) litigation cases. There are another 120 (120 in 1989) similar cases, for which amounts are not stated in the claims, and for which it is not possible to determine the amounts of contingent liabilities.

(4) As indicated in the narrative above, there are three comprehensive land claims awaiting ratification:

	(in millions of dollars)
Council for Yukon Indians	248
Dene Nation and Métis Association	504
Tungavik Federation of Nunavut	612	1,364
Implementation costs related to the above claims		600

In 1989, no comprehensive land claims had been ratified or agreed to in principle. Three of these claims reached the final stages of negotiations in 1990 and accordingly, the comparative figure for 1989 is nil.

OPINION OF THE AUDITOR GENERAL ON THE
FINANCIAL STATEMENTS OF THE GOVERNMENT OF CANADA

I have examined the statement of assets and liabilities of the Government of Canada as at March 31, 1990 and the statements of revenue and expenditure, accumulated deficit, changes in financial position and transactions for the year then ended. My examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests and other procedures as I considered necessary to enable me to report as required by Section 6 of the Auditor General Act.

In my opinion, these financial statements present fairly the financial position of the Government of Canada as at March 31, 1990 and the results of its operations, the changes in its financial position and its financial requirements for the year then ended in accordance with the stated accounting policies of the Government of Canada as set out in Note 1 to the financial statements applied, after giving retroactive effect to the changes in accounting policies as explained in Note 3, on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Additional information and comments on the financial statements and this opinion are included in my observations in Chapter 2 of my annual Report to Parliament.

BUDGETARY REVENUE

Budgetary revenue consists of all tax and non-tax amounts which affect the annual surplus or deficit of the Government of Canada. Revenue is reported net of refunds, and excludes amounts credited to the Canada Pension Plan Account, superannuation accounts, other specified purpose accounts, and other liability accounts.

The Government generally reports tax revenue in the year in which it is received and excludes taxes collected on behalf of provinces and territories and taxes receivable. Refunds are allocated to the year in which the obligations for refund, as determined by the completion of manual assessment and commencement of the mechanical processing cycle, occur.

Tax revenue for a fiscal year includes receipts credited to the Receiver General by the Bank of Canada and the chartered banks by March 31st and amounts received in federal government offices by March 31st, but not deposited until April or not credited to the Receiver General until April. Tax revenue also includes amounts received in the mail on the first working day of April, except when it is clear that it was the remitter's intention to discharge an obligation arising in the new fiscal year.

The main factors affecting the flow of tax revenue are variations in economic conditions, changes in statutory tax rates, and changes in the base upon which the statutory tax rates are applied and taxes are calculated. Although a taxpayer's income tax liability relates to a taxation year, advance collection of individual and corporation income taxes by payroll deductions and instalment payments results in a distribution of receipts throughout the year. Similarly, sales and excise taxes and duties are received on a regular basis throughout the year.

The issue of timing for the purposes of accounting and recording of revenues and related receivables in a government environment has been a subject of debate for many years. Should revenue be recognized when cash is received (on a cash basis), or should it be recognized in the period in which the transaction occurred that gave rise to the revenue (on an accrual basis)? In the past, the Government has generally reported revenues, both tax and non-tax, on a cash basis, given the recognized difficulties in reporting tax revenues on an accrual basis. However, following the release of recommendations of the Public Sector Accounting and Auditing Committee of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants, the Government has decided to record non-tax revenues on an accrual basis.

With the release of these Public Accounts, the basis for recording non-tax revenue has been changed to an accrual basis. Non-tax revenue is now recorded in the fiscal year in which the transactions or events occurred that gave rise to the revenue rather than in the year of receipt of the amounts.

The difference between gross and net revenue is revenue credited to appropriations and revenue of consolidated Crown corporations.

In this table, revenue from outside parties represents revenue from organizations and individuals outside the Government of Canada as a reporting entity while revenue internal to the Government represents revenue generated from transactions between organizations within the reporting entity. (4) In 1989-90, changes have been made in accounting policies, and certain Crown corporations are now part of the Government's reporting entity. The changes were applied retroactively and the previous year's deficit and accumulated deficit have been restated for consistency. Additional information is provided in Section 5 of this volume (Table 5.1) and in the audited financial statements (Section 2 of this volume).

ment of Canada as a reporting entity is defined in Note 1 to the audited financial statements in Section 2 of this volume.

Revenue credited to appropriations represents revenue that has been credited to expenditure rather than to revenue where authority has been granted by Parliament.

"Total net revenue" represents all budgetary revenue recorded in the accounts of Canada in accordance with the accounting policies of the Government. "Total gross revenue" is derived by adding to "Total net revenue" "Revenue credited to appropriations" and revenue of consolidated Crown corporations.

Budgetary Revenue in 1989-90

Total net budgetary revenue from outside parties increased by 9.2% or $9,639 million, to $113,707 million in 1989-90. Tax revenue, which accounts for 93% of total revenue, increased by $8,757 million or 9.1%, while non-tax revenue increased by $882 million or 11.8%.

Tax Revenue

The growth in tax revenue reflects a combination of factors. The continued strength in the underlying tax bases, especially personal income, which accompanied the growth in economic activity throughout 1989, was the prime factor underlying the increase in tax revenue. In addition, fiscal and cash management initiatives introduced in past budgets, particularly the introduction of the Large Corporations Tax, the increase in the personal income surtaxes, and the January 1990 initiatives to accelerate the remittance of income taxes contributed to the increase in tax revenue.

Personal Income Tax

The personal income tax is levied on personal income under the provisions of the Income Tax Act. Personal income tax continues to be the largest source of Government revenue, accounting for almost 46% of total budgetary revenue in 1989-90. It amounted to $51,895 million, an increase of 12.8%, and accounted for more than 61% of the increase in total budgetary revenue.

The increase in personal income tax revenue in 1989-90 was largely due to the strength of the economy, particularly personal income which, in 1989, grew by 9%. The increase in personal income, in turn, reflected the continued strength in employment and advances in wages and salaries.

The increase in personal income tax revenue also reflects the impact of the increases in the high-income and general surtaxes introduced in the April 1989 Budget to reduce the deficit. Dampening the overall impact of the strength in economic activity and the April 1989 Budget measures on personal income tax revenue was the effect of tax reform, introduced in 1988. Although tax reform was effective January 1, 1988, holding tables for source deductions were not changed until July 1, 1988 to reflect the new system, implying substantially larger refund payments in 1989-90 than in 1988-89. Partially offsetting the impact of the higher refunds, however, was the $1.0 billion one-time acceleration of source deduction remittances from large employers and quarterly instalments from individual taxpayers. Employers with average monthly remittances of $50,000 or more are now required to remit the tax withholdings from their employees up to four times per month, while the remittance of quarterly income tax instalment payments by individuals was accelerated from the end of the last month of each quarter to the 15th day of the last month of each quarter.

Corporation Income Tax

The corporation income tax is levied on corporation income under the provisions of the Income Tax Act. Corporation income tax collections amounted to $13,021 million in 1989-90, an increase of 11% from 1988-89. The growth in corporate tax revenue occurred despite the fact that corporate profits before taxes declined 13.4% relative to the previous year. The increase in corporate income tax revenue in 1989-90 is largely attributable to the impact of tax reform introduced in 1988 and the policy measures introduced in the April 1989 Budget.

As part of tax reform, corporate income tax rates were lowered and the tax base was substantially broadened. As a result, overall corporate tax revenues have increased as the impact of the base broadening measures more than offset that of the rate reductions. Capital cost allowance rates were decreased and the general investment tax credit has been eliminated. The earned depletion allowance has been phased-out. Many changes were also made to the taxation of financial institutions and life insurance companies. The inclusion rate applying to capital gains has been increased to three-fourths from one-half in 1987 and the use of other tax reductions has been limited — i.e. meals and entertainment expense deductibility, preferred share financing, leasing rules, etc.

In the April 1989 Budget, a new large corporations tax of 0.175% on capital employed in Canada in excess of $10 million was introduced effective July 1, 1989. In addition, the surtax on corporate income was modified and the remittance of corporate income tax instalments due after 1989 was accelerated.

Unemployment Insurance Contributions

Premiums from employers and employees are levied under the provisions of the Unemployment Insurance Act and are classified as part of budgetary revenue. In 1989-90, unemployment insurance premiums decreased 4.7%, to a level of $10,738 million. This decline is attributable to the reduction in the 1989 premium rate (the employee premium rate was reduced from $2.35 per $100 of insurable earnings in calendar year 1988 to $1.95 per $100 of insurable earnings in calendar year 1989). The overall impact of the decline in premium rates in 1989 was partly offset by the strength in employment and labour income, the impact of the acceleration initiative affecting the remittance of source deductions and the increase in premium rates in 1990 (the employee premium rate was increased to $2.25 per $100 of insurable earnings for calendar year 1990).

Non-Resident Income Tax

Non-resident income tax is levied on the income earned in Canada by non-residents under the provisions of the Income Tax Act. It is derived from tax withheld from dividends, interest, rents, royalties, alimony, and income from estates and trusts paid to non-residents. It amounted to $1,361 million in 1989-90, a decrease of 13.8% from its year-earlier level. This decrease reflects extraordinarily large dividend payments made by Canadian companies to foreigners in 1988-89 and the impact of discretionary measures introduced in past budgets which extend the exemption for certain long-term government and corporate debt obligations.

Excise Taxes and Duties

Excise taxes and duties are collected under the Excise Tax Act and Customs Tariff Act. Excise taxes and duties totalled $28,155 million in 1989-90, an increase of 9.3% over 1988-89.

Sales tax

The sales tax, totalling $17,672 million in 1989-90, up 13% from that recorded in 1988-89, was the most important tax levied under the Excise Tax Act. The growth in sales tax revenue reflects the strength in consumer and business expenditures throughout 1989 and the impact of the increases in tax rates announced in the April 1989 Budget. More specifically, on June 1, 1989, the general manufacturers' sales tax rate was increased one-and-a-half percentage points to 13.5% and the telecommunication services and programming services rate went to 11% from 10%. The rate applying to construction materials and equipment was increased to 9% from 8% effective January 1, 1990 while the rate applicable to tobacco and alcohol taxes increased to 19% from 18% effective midnight April 28, 1990. This tax is to be replaced by the proposed Goods and Services Tax, effective January 1, 1991.

Customs import duties

Revenues from customs import duties, consisting mainly of ad valorem taxes on the importation of goods levied under the Customs Tariff Act, totalled $4,587 million in 1989-90, an increase of 1.5% over the previous fiscal year result. The outcome for 1989-90 for customs import duties is influenced by two offsetting factors: on one hand, there was positive growth in the tax base which served to increase revenue while on the other hand, the phase-out, starting January 1, 1989, of all bilateral tariffs under the Canada-U.S. Free Trade Agreement served to reduce customs import duties revenue.

Other excise taxes and duties

Excise duties are levied on alcoholic beverages (other than wines) and tobacco products. In addition to tobacco products, excise taxes are imposed on other items such as jewelry, passenger vehicle air conditioners and telecommunications programming services — i.e. television cable rental and pay television. Other excise taxes and duties revenue amounted to $3,425 million in 1989-90, up 15.7% from its previous year's level. The increase is largely attributable to the impact of policy changes introduced in the April 1989 Budget — i.e. increases in the excise taxes on telecommunications programming services, manufactured tobacco products and in the excise duties on cigarettes, beer and alcoholic beverages.

Energy taxes

Energy taxes primarily include the excise tax on gasoline and aviation gas and diesel fuel. Prior to the elimination of the National Energy Program, energy taxes also included the petroleum and gas revenue tax, the natural gas and gas liquids tax, oil export charges, the petroleum compensation charge, and the Canadian Ownership Special Charge. Energy tax revenue amounted to $2,471 million in 1989-90, a decrease of 6.6% relative to last year's result. During 1989-90, the excise tax on gasoline and aviation gasoline was increased by 1-cent-per-litre, midnight April 28, 1990 and by a further 1-cent-per-litre on January 1, 1990. An additional 1-cent-per-litre on leaded gasoline and aviation gasoline was applied effective midnight April 28, 1990.

Other Tax Revenue

Other tax revenue is comprised primarily of withholding taxes on income earned in Canada by non-resident life insurance companies and income from trusts. In 1989-90, other tax revenue amounted to $226 million, a decrease of 21.1% from 1988-89.

Non-Tax Revenue

Non-tax revenue, consisting of return on investments and other non-tax revenue, increased 10.6% in 1989-90, to $8,311 million.

Return on Investments

Return on investments consists mainly of interest from loans and advances, transfer of profits and surpluses, and rental income from properties. Return on investments amounted in 1989-90 to $5,850 million, an increase of 6% over last year's result. Table 3.2 presents a comparative summary of return on investments. The table also discloses the reconciling items between the total ministerial return on investments amount as reported in Table 6 in Section 1 of Volume II (Part I) and the amount as reported in Table 3.1. The reconciling items include an adjustment to the Exchange Fund Account to reflect the net income of the account from January 1, 1990 to March 31, 1990, the revenue of the consolidated specified purpose accounts and the accrual of non-tax revenue amounts. The return on investments internal to the Government has been deducted from the total net return on investments to obtain the total net return on investments from outside parties. Revenue credited to appropriations from outside parties and revenue of consolidated Crown corporations have been included in the latter to obtain total gross return on investments from outside parties.

Other Non-Tax Revenue

Other non-tax revenue is comprised of refunds of previous years' expenditure, services and services fees, privileges, licences and permits, proceeds from the sale of capital assets and current goods and services, domestic coinage, and miscellaneous non-tax revenue. Other non-tax revenue increased 24.2% to $2,461 million in 1989-90. This increase was largely attributable to the net proceeds from the gain on sale of the remaining shares of Air Canada and the seigniorage from the sale of new dollar coins.

BUDGETARY EXPENDITURE

Budgetary expenditure consists of all charges to budgetary appropriations which affect the annual deficit or surplus of the Government. Such charges include those for work performed, goods received, services rendered, and transfer payments made, during the year and in the supplementary period including accounts payable at year end. In addition, budgetary expenditure may also include provisions for valuation of loans, investments and advances, for borrowings of enterprise Crown corporations, which are agents of the Crown, and for other obligations related to statutory items and annual appropriations. As well, net expenditures of the Unemployment Insurance Account, the Western Grain Stabilization Account, the Crop Reinsurance Fund, the Agricultural Commodities Stabilization Accounts and other specified purpose accounts are also included.

Budgetary expenditure excludes amounts charged to the Canada Pension Plan Account, superannuation accounts, other specified purpose accounts and other liability accounts.

With the release of these Public Accounts, changes in accounting policies affecting budgetary expenditure have been made. These changes are in response to reservations and recommendations expressed in the past by the Auditor General and the House of Commons Standing Committee on the Public Accounts. The actuarial liability for the indexed portion of federal government employee pensions is now recorded. Allowances for general contingencies have been established in the event of possible future multilateral agreement by the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development countries on debt or debt service reduction with respect to sovereign loans, and Crown corporations, that are appropriation-dependent, are now part of the Government's reporting entity.

Expenditure by Type and Source

Chart A presents the total net expenditure with outside parties by type for the current fiscal year, while Chart B compares the total net expenditure with outside parties for the last five fiscal years.

Table 4.1 presents expenditure by type and source. The table is presented on both a gross and a net basis and segregates expenditure with outside parties from expenditure internal to the Government. The difference between gross and net expenditure is revenue credited to appropriations and revenue of consolidated Crown corporations credited to expenditure.

In this table, expenditure with outside parties represents expenditure incurred as a result of transactions with organizations and individuals outside the Government of Canada as a reporting entity. Expenditure internal to the Government represents expenditure incurred in transactions between organizations within the reporting entity. The Government of Canada as a reporting entity is defined in Note 1 to the audited financial statements in Section 2 of this volume.

Revenue credited to appropriations represents revenue that has been credited to budgetary expenditure, rather than budgetary revenue, where such authority has been granted by Parliament, and revenue of consolidated Crown corporations credited to expenditure.

"Total net expenditure" represents all budgetary expenditure recorded in the accounts of Canada in accordance with the accounting policies of the Government. "Total gross expenditure" is derived by adding to "Total net expenditure" "Revenue credited to appropriations" and revenue of consolidated Crown corporations credited to expenditure.

[3] In 1989-90, changes have been made in accounting policies, and certain Crown corporations are now part of the Government's reporting entity. The changes were applied retroactively and the previous year's deficit and accumulated deficit have been restated for consistency. Additional information is provided in Section 5 of this volume (Table 5.1) and in the audited financial statements (Section 2 of this volume).

Budgetary Expenditure in 1989-90

Total net budgetary expenditure with outside parties increased 7.3% to $142,703 million in 1989-90, compared to an increase of 5.7% in 1988-89. The increase in the rate of growth in 1989-90 was largely attributable to public debt charges, which advanced by 17%, compared to an increase of 14.3% in 1988-89. The rate of growth in program spending was 4%, up from the increase of 3.1% recorded in 1988-89, but below the rate of inflation, as measured by the consumer price index, of 5%.

Public debt charges, which account for about 27.2% of total Government spending, increased 17%, to $38,820 million, up from the increase of 14.3% registered in 1988-89. The increase in the rate of growth of public debt charges in 1989-90 reflects the compounding effect of increases in interest rates and the increase in the stock of debt. The continued strength in economic activity in 1989 and the accompanying inflationary pressures resulting from tight labour and product markets resulted in monetary policy remaining restrictive throughout fiscal year 1989-90. As a result, interest rates were higher in 1989-90 than in 1988-89. Given the stock of federal debt, the impact of these higher interest rates on debt servicing costs resulted in the large increase in public debt charges in 1989-90.

Total program spending - that is, total Government spending excluding public debt charges - advanced 4% to $103,883 million in 1989-90, up from the 3.1% growth rate experienced in 1988-89. This is well below the 7.8% advance in the gross domestic product and the 5% increase in the consumer price index in 1989. The moderate increase in program expenditures reflects to a large extent the impact of various restraint measures that the Government has introduced since November 1984. These measures include the phasing-out and reduction of various expenditure programs, limits on indexation, reductions in the number of person-years, and other actions to control operating costs. As in 1988-89, most of the increases during the year were in areas of direct social assistance and fiscal transfers to other levels of government.

Major transfer payments to persons represent the largest single component of federal government program spending. Transfers in this component include direct federal payments under the elderly benefit systems (old age security, guaranteed income supplements, and spouses' allowances), unemployment insurance benefits, family allowances, and veterans' benefits and allowances. A major portion of spending in this category is formula-funded or demand-driven, with changes reflecting developments in economic activity and the underlying population bases. In 1989-90, transfer payments to persons rose 6%, up from the 4.8% increase reported in 1988-89. The increase in the rate of growth in spending in this component largely reflects the impact of higher inflation rate in 1989 on the indexed programs. Growth in spending on major transfer payments to persons in 1989-90 was concentrated in higher elderly benefit and unemployment insurance program payments. The increase in elderly benefits reflected increases in both average benefits, which are indexed to quarterly changes in the consumer price index, and the eligible population base. The increase in unemployment insurance program benefits was largely due to increases in average benefits as the number of beneficiaries was relatively unchanged. Increases in veterans' benefits and allowances and family allowances reflected advances in the consumer price index. The modest growth in family allowances reflects the partial indexation of benefits and a declining population base.

The federal government provides substantial financial support to other levels of government to assist them in carrying out programs for which the provinces have the primary responsibility, such as health care, post-secondary education, and social assistance. Major transfers to other levels of government consist of fiscal arrangements, Established Programs Financing, and the Canada Assistance Plan, among others. Fiscal arrangements include the equalization program, transfers to the territories, grants to municipalities in lieu of taxes, as well as the Reciprocal Taxation program. Major transfers to other levels of government increased 5.5% in 1989-90, compared to 7.6% reported in 1988-89. Most of the increase in 1989-90 was concentrated in equalization transfers to lower-income provinces. The impact of robust overall growth in provincial revenues in 1989, and in prior years as well, has resulted in significantly higher equalization payments to the provinces. Payments under the Canada Assistance Plan continued to grow strongly in 1989-90 reflecting an increase in provincial spending on eligible programs. In contrast, direct cash transfers to the provinces under the Established Programs Financing were lower in 1989-90 than in the previous year, despite the fact that total entitlements under this program are about 6 % higher. Total entitlements are sourced through a combination of tax point transfers and direct cash transfers. The lower cash payments reflect prior-year adjustments, coupled with the strength in tax bases throughout 1989-90 with the result that a larger portion of the overall transfer was made through an increase in the value of the tax points.

Defence spending rose 3.9% to $11,453 million in 1989-90, up from a 2.4% growth rate in 1988-89. The moderate growth in defence spending in the past two fiscal years reflects the impact of the reduction measures announced in the April 1989 Budget, as well as the timing of capital expenditures. This component of spending had been increasing by 2% a year in real terms.

Expenditures on external affairs and aid decreased by .9% to $3,784 million in 1989-90, compared to a 3.5% growth rate in 1988-89.

All other program spending by the federal government consists of payments to Crown corporations, subsidies and other transfers, and spending on operations of Government. This component registered an increase of 1.9% in 1989-90, compared to an increase of 1.8% in 1988-89. The growth in 1989-90 primarily reflects developments in the agricultural sector, as no net payments were made under the Western Grain Stabilization Act in 1989-90, while payments under the Western Grain Transportation Act were lower due to a decline in shipments. In addition, energy subsidies were also lower, primarily reflecting the termination of the Canadian Exploration and Development Incentive Program. The impact of these lower transfers was largely offset by increased transfers to natives and to regional development agencies. The rate of growth of operations of Government was restrained by the impact of past budget measures.

SUPPLEMENTARY STATEMENTS

Public Debt Charges

Public debt charges include interest on unmatured debt (including Canada and Treasury bills), on specified purpose accounts and on other accounts, costs of issuing new loans, amortization of bond discounts, premiums and commissions, and the costs of servicing the public debt.

The increase of $4,922 million in public debt charges related to unmatured debt is commensurate with an increase in the debt, which rose from $277,624 million at March 31, 1989 to $295,984 million at March 31, 1990. The increase of $712 million in public debt, charges related to specified purpose accounts was due mainly to an increase in the balances of superannuation accounts.

A comparative summary of public debt charges is presented in Table 4.2. The table also discloses the reconciling items between total public debt charges as reported in the Finance ministerial section (Section 10) of Volume II (Part I) and the total net expenditure of the public debt as per Table 4.1. The reconciling items include the expenditure of the consolidated specified purpose accounts. Since no portion of revenue credited to appropriations applies to public debt, total gross public debt is identical to total net public debt.

Expenditure under Statutory Authority

The spending authority provided by statutory appropriations is for specified purposes and for such amounts and such time as the acts prescribe. This spending authority does not generally lapse at the end of the year in which it is granted. Expenditure under such authority accounts for more than half of the total net expenditure each year.

Table 4.3 presents a comparative summary of these statutory expenditures. The table also discloses the reconciling items between the total ministerial expenditure under statutory authority and the total net statutory expenditure. The reconciling items include the statutory expenditure of the consolidated specified purpose accounts and the provision for valuation. Expenditure internal to the Government has been deducted from the total net statutory expenditure to obtain the total net statutory expenditure with outside parties. Revenue credited to appropriations from outside parties has been added to the latter to obtain the total gross statutory expenditure with outside parties.

CONSOLIDATED CROWN CORPORATIONS

This section provides all related information on consolidated Crown corporations.

Consolidated Crown corporations are those Crown corporations who rely on Government funding as their principal source of revenue. Crown corporations are defined to include either parent Crown corporations or wholly-owned subsidiaries. A wholly-owned subsidiary is wholly-owned by one or more parent Crown corporations.

Consolidation involves the combination of the accounts of the corporations described in the preceding paragraph on a line-by-line and uniform basis of accounting and eliminating inter-organizational balances and transactions. Before these balances and transactions can be eliminated, the corporations' accounts must be adjusted to the Government basis of accounting. Most corporations follow generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) used by private sector companies. The most significant difference between GAAP and the Government basis of accounting is that under GAAP, non-financial assets such as buildings, machinery, equipment and inventories are reflected as assets and written-off over their respective lives or as they are consumed or used. The Government treats the acquisition of non-financial assets as expenditures in the year of acquisition.

Details of the Consolidation of the Government and the Consolidated Crown Corporations

Table 5.1 discloses details of the consolidation of Crown corporations as defined above. The table presents balances and transactions with outside parties and shows revenues and expenses on a net basis together with the gross-up of transactions as reported in the Government's financial statements.

Summary Financial Statements of Consolidated Crown Corporations

The following tables display details of the assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses of the consolidated Crown corporations.

For those corporations having other year ends than March 31, the data are based on unaudited interim financial statements which have been prepared on a basis consistent with the most recent audited financial statements.

Tables 5.2 and 5.3 summarize the financial transactions and results of operations of each consolidated Crown corporation in accordance with its own respective accounting policies. Most consolidated Crown corporations follow the generally accepted accounting principles used by private sector companies, as outlined in the Handbook of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants.

Financial assets include cash, receivables, loans and investments. Physical assets and deferred charges represent the unexpended portion of non-financial assets such as buildings, machinery and equipment in use or under construction, inventories and other items of expenditure which will be expended as these assets are used. Financial assets and liabilities in respect of the Government and other Crown corporations represent the unpaid balances arising from financing transactions and normal operating activities. Borrowings from outside parties represent amounts repayable to institutional and other investors. Other liabilities are amounts due in respect of purchases, employee termination and pension benefits, accrued interest on borrowings, long-term capital leases and sundry accounts payable.

Revenues include financial assistance received or receivable from the Government in respect of the current year's operations. Expenses are segregated between those relating to outside parties, Government and other Crown corporations as well as other adjustments and dividends paid to outside parties. These adjustments may increase or reduce the amount of income accruing to the Government. Equity transactions with the Government include dividends declared, transfers of profits to the Government and non-current financial assistance provided by the Government. The line "Conversion to the Government accounting basis for consolidation purpose" represents the adjustments required to bring the corporations' generally accepted accounting principles basis of accounting to the Government's basis of accounting.

These tables present consolidated financial information on consolidated parent Crown corporations and financial information on unconsolidated wholly-owned subsidiaries. Volume III of the Public Accounts includes a complete list of all parent Crown corporations, wholly-owned subsidiaries, other subsidiaries and associates.

Consolidated Crown corporations are also categorized as being either agents or non-agents of the Crown. Agency status may be expressly stated in the incorporating legislation or conferred under the provisions of the Government Corporations Operation Act. In accordance with Section 54 of the Financial Administration Act, the payment of all money borrowed by consolidated agent Crown corporations and interest thereon is a charge on and payable out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund. Table 5.4 summarizes such borrowings for the consolidated corporations and the changes during the year ended March 31, 1990.

A summary of financial assistance under Government budgetary appropriations to consolidated Crown corporations for the year ended March 31, 1990 is provided in Table 5.6. Differences in figures reported in Table 5.3 and those reported in Table 5.6 result from the use of different accounting policies and from items in transit.

[1] This column records only that portion of financial assistance received or receivable from the federal Government that has been credited to operations. A further amount of $236,392 representing capital and operating appropriations received by the corporations is included in "Equity transactions with Government". Revenues "Other" include amounts generated from the sale of goods and services, investment income as well as grants where the corporations qualify as a member of a general class of recipients. The total financial assistance accounted for by the corporations during the year does not agree with the amount reported in Table 5.6 because of differences resulting from the different accounting policies followed.

Table 5.4 summarizes the borrowing transactions by consolidated agent Crown corporations made on behalf of Her Majesty. The borrowings are from other than the Government. In accordance with Section 54 of the FAA, the payment of all money borrowed by agent Crown corporations and interest thereon is a charge on and payable out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund. Such borrowings are consolidated in the summary financial statements of Canada.

CONSOLIDATED SPECIFIED PURPOSE ACCOUNTS

Consolidated specified purpose accounts are categories of budgetary revenue and expenditure which report transactions of certain accounts where enabling legislation requires that revenues be earmarked, and that related payments and expenditures be charged against such revenues.

In the past, earmarked revenues were credited to non-budgetary accounts, with related offsetting payments and expenditures charged thereto. The transactions of these accounts are reported with budgetary revenue and expenditure, in order to provide a more comprehensive reporting of the Government's operating results.

Commencing with the 1989-90 fiscal year, transactions in insurance and other specified purposes accounts are reported as budgetary revenue and expenditure. This was done as a result of changes in accounting policies affecting specified purpose accounts and has been applied on a retroactive basis.

Further, enabling legislation requires that the transactions in each of these accounts be accounted for separately. Table 5.7 presents a summary of the balances and transactions of these accounts, in the manner required by legislation.

The financial statements of the Unemployment Insurance Account, together with the Auditor General's report thereon, are presented at the end of this section.

Unemployment Insurance Account

The Unemployment Insurance Act provides for a compulsory contributory unemployment insurance program applicable to all employees, with few exceptions.

The Act authorizes an account in the accounts of Canada to be known as the Unemployment Insurance Account.

The Act provides that the following be credited to the Account: (a) premiums, fines, penalties and interest; (b) Government share of benefits paid; (c) refunds of overpayments of benefits, and benefit repayments; (d) amounts for services rendered to other Government departments or agencies, or to the public; (e) amounts provided for any other purpose related to unemployment insurance and authorized by an appropriation administered by the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission; and, (f) interest on the balance of the Account at such rates as the Minister of Finance may authorize. The Act also provides that the following be charged to the Account: (a) benefits paid under the Act; (b) costs of administering the Act; and (c) interest on advances made by the Minister of Finance.

Maximum weekly employee premiums were $11.80 from April 1, 1989 to December 31, 1989 and $12.48 from January 1, 1990 to March 31, 1990. For the same periods, maximum weekly benefits were $363 from April 1, 1989 to December 31, 1989 and $384 from January 1, 1990 to March 31, 1990.

Interest-bearing loans are made to the Unemployment Insurance Account, under Section 119(1) of the Unemployment Insurance Act, as a result of deficiencies in contributions from employers and employees. During the year, all outstanding loans were repaid.

TO THE MINISTER OF EMPLOYMENT AND IMMIGRATION

I have examined the balance sheet of the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission relating to the Unemployment Insurance Account as at December 31, 1989 and the statement of revenue, expenses and surplus for the year then ended. 5. Premiums

In 1989, the premium rate for employees was $1.95 per $100 of insurable earnings, compared to $2.35 in 1988. The premium rate for the employers, calculated at 1.4 times the employee rate was reduced to $2.73 per $100 of an employee's insurable earnings.

Employers with qualified wage loss insurance plans are entitled to premium reductions. Employers are required to share this reduction with their employees. In 1989, the total amount of premium reductions is estimated at $444 million ($426 million in 1988).

6. Overpayments and underpayments of benefits

The large number of claimants to be monitored and the requirement for prompt service require selective internal control procedures rather than universal and therefore the verification of claims is mainly done after claimants have begun to receive benefits.

As a result, overpayments and underpayments of benefits exist which the Commission estimated at $348 million ($344 million in 1988) and $103 million ($141 million in 1988) respectively. These amounts are included in the benefits for the year.

7. Administration costs

The actual administrative costs of the Commission are calculated on the government fiscal year basis (April 1 to March 31). For purposes of charging the U. I. Account on a calendar year basis, applicable U. I. Administrative costs are apportioned as 9/12 of the amount for the fiscal year plus 3/12 of the amount for the previous fiscal year. The administrative costs calculated in this way totalled $1,061 million in 1989 ($975 million in 1988). This amount was offset by approximately $7.5 million ($7 million in 1988) for the recovery of costs related to maintaining the Social Insurance Number registry and issuing replacement cards.

8. Contingent liabilities

In the normal course of the operations of the Unemployment Insurance Account, certain appeals against or by the Commission are presently outstanding. In the opinion of management, the result of these appeals will not have a significant impact on the operations of the Unemployment Insurance Account.

9. Significant event

Bill C-21, the act amending the Unemployment Insurance Act, was passed by the House of Commons on November 6, 1989 but remains under review by the Senate. The proposed legislation eliminates the government's share of benefits and affects various provisions of the U. I. program, including entrance requirements, benefits and imposition of penalties.

Extended benefits paid under Section 22 of the Act are benefits paid to claimants who have exhausted their initial benefits (and labour force extended benefits, if they are entitled) and who reside in a region where the regional unemployment rate exceeds four per cent.

Extended benefits paid under Subsections 25(8) and 26(3) of the Act are benefits paid to claimants on job creation projects or training courses and whose entitlements are not enough to cover the duration of the project or course plus an additional maximum of three weeks of entitlement after the projects or courses end.

LOANS, INVESTMENTS AND ADVANCES

Loans, investments and advances is a category of financial claims represented by debt instruments and ownership interests held by the Government of Canada, acquired through the use of parliamentary appropriations. Some of these appropriations permit repayments to be used for further loans and advances. Many appropriations are non-lapsing, that is, unexpended balances may be carried forward from year to year. Details of the use of non-budgetary appropriations, for loans, investments and advances, can be found in the ministerial sections of Volume II (Part I).

Loans, investments and advances are recorded at cost and are subject to valuation to reflect estimated losses on realization. Foreign currency transactions are translated and recorded in Canadian dollar equivalents at the exchange rates prevailing at the transaction dates. Loans, investments and advances resulting from foreign currency transactions are, in turn, reported at year-end closing rates of exchange; net gains are credited to revenue as premium and discount on exchange, while net losses are charged to budgetary expenditure of the Department of Finance.

The allowance established to reflect estimated losses on realization of financial claims held by the Government has been authorized by the Minister of Finance and the President of the Treasury Board, under Section 63(2) of the Financial Administration Act.

Revenue received during the year on loans, investments and advances, is credited to return on investments; details are given in Section 11 of Volume II (Part II).

Chart A presents the total loans, investments and advances by category for the current fiscal year, while Chart B compares the total loans, investments and advances for the last five fiscal years. Table 6.1 presents the transactions and year-end balances of loans, investments and advances by category.

Transactions and balances are further summarized in Sections 1 and 2 of this volume.

Some tables in this section present the continuity of accounts, by showing the opening and closing balances, as well as receipts and other credits, and payments and other charges. In addition, the term "account(s) without current transactions" has been included in some tables, to show the net result of transactions in accounts which were closed out in the previous year.

ENTERPRISE CROWN CORPORATIONS

Loans and advances to, and investments in, enterprise Crown corporations represent the balance of financial claims held by the Government against corporations for working capital, capital expenditure and other purposes, investment in the capital stock of corporations, and loans and advances to corporations for re-lending.

A Crown corporation means a parent Crown corporation or a wholly-owned subsidiary; a parent Crown corporation is wholly-owned directly by the Crown; a wholly-owned subsidiary is wholly-owned by one or more parent Crown corporations directly or indirectly through any number of subsidiaries each of which is wholly-owned directly or indirectly by one or more parent Crown corporations.

An enterprise Crown corporation is a Crown corporation that does not rely on Government funding as its principal source of revenue. These include selected corporations listed in Part I and all the corporations listed in Part II of Schedule III of the Financial Administration Act, the Bank of Canada and the Canadian Wheat Board.

An enterprise Crown corporation is ultimately accountable to Parliament, through a minister of the Crown, for the conduct of its affairs. Most of the enterprise Crown corporations listed in the schedules to the Financial Administration Act are agents of Her Majesty in right of Canada. This status is granted in one of the following ways:

(i) designation by Parliament, through a special act of incorporation;
(ii) statutory authorization; and,
(iii) proclamation by the Government Corporations Operation Act.

Financial statements of parent enterprise Crown corporations can be found in Volume III of the Public Accounts. The financial statements of wholly-owned subsidiaries of enterprise Crown corporations are also included in that volume whenever their accounts are not consolidated with those of the parent corporation. These financial statements are appended to those of the related parent enterprise Crown corporation.

Lending Institutions

Table 6.2 presents a summary of the balances and transactions for the various types of loans, investments and advances which were made to enterprise Crown corporations whose primary activity is to provide financial assistance.

In 1989-90, 14,343 common shares having a par value of $1,434.3 million were surrendered by the Government to the Corporation for cancellation. The surrender by the Government was authorized by PC 1990-302 dated February 21, 1990. The reduction in share capital due to the cancellation of the shares by the Corporation was offset by an increase in corporate retained earnings. This increase was used to absorb the effects of a writedown in book value of the Corporation's net assets resulting from the adoption of the successful efforts method of accounting. The Government believes that the change in accounting method does not indicate an impairment in the market value of the Corporation. As a consequence, and because the Government continues to own 100% of the Corporation, no adjustment has been made in 1989-90 to the net recorded value of the Government's investment in the Corporation.

Summary Financial Statements of Enterprise Crown Corporations

The following tables display details of the assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses of enterprise Crown corporations.

Tables 6.4 to 6.6 present the assets, liabilities, revenues, expenses and changes to the equity of enterprise corporations grouped in five segments. The segment of competitive, self-sustaining corporations consists of those corporations named in Schedule III, Part II of the Financial Administration Act.

For those corporations having year ends other than March 31, the data are based on unaudited interim financial statements which have been prepared on a basis consistent with the most recent audited financial statements.

The tables summarize the financial transactions and results of operations of each enterprise Crown corporation in accordance with its own respective accounting policies. Most Crown corporations follow the generally accepted accounting principles used by private sector companies, as outlined in the Handbook of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants.

Financial assets include cash, receivables, loans and investments. Physical assets and deferred charges represent the unexpensed portion of non-financial assets such as buildings, machinery and equipment in use or under construction, inventories and other items of expenditure which will be expensed as these assets are used. Financial assets and liabilities in respect of the Government and other Crown corporations represent the unpaid balances arising from financing transactions and normal operating activities. Borrowings from outside parties represent amounts repayable to institutional and other investors. Other liabilities are amounts due in respect of purchases, employee termination and pension benefits, accrued interest on borrowings, long-term capital leases and sundry accounts payable.

Revenues include financial assistance received or receivable from the Government in respect of the current year's operations. Expenses are segregated between those relating to outside parties, Government and other Crown corporations as well as other adjustments and dividends paid to outside parties. These adjustments may increase or reduce the amount of income accruing to the Government. Equity transactions with the Government include dividends declared, transfers of profits to the Government and non-current financial assistance provided by the Government.

These tables present consolidated financial information on parent enterprise Crown corporations and financial information on unconsolidated wholly-owned subsidiaries. Volume III of the Public Accounts includes a complete list of all parent Crown corporations, wholly-owned subsidiaries, other subsidiaries and associates.

Enterprise Crown corporations are also categorized as being either agents or non-agents of the Crown. Agency status may be expressly stated in the incorporating legislation or conferred under the provisions of the Government Corporations Operation Act. In accordance with Section 54 of the Financial Administration Act, the payment of all money borrowed by agent enterprise Crown corporations and interest thereon is a charge on and payable out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund. Such borrowings therefore constitute obligations of the Government and are recorded as such in the summary financial statements of Canada net of borrowings expected to be repaid directly by these corporations. The gross amounts of such borrowings are included under "Liabilities, Outside Parties". A summary of such borrowings and the changes during the year ended March 31, 1990 is presented in Table 6.7.

Borrowings by non-agent enterprise Crown corporations are not, in law, obligations of the Government. However, when the Government expressly guarantees such borrowings, they become potential obligations of the Government. Such guarantees amounted to $0.1 million as at March 31, 1990. A summary of borrowing transactions by non-agent enterprise Crown corporations is presented in Table 6.8. The maturity and currency of enterprise Crown corporations' borrowings is presented in Table 6.9. Contingent liabilities of enterprise Crown corporations are presented in Table 6.10.

A summary of financial assistance under Government budgetary appropriations to enterprise Crown corporations for the year ended March 31, 1990 is provided in Table 6.11. Differences in figures reported in Table 6.6 and those reported in Table 6.11 result from the use of different accounting policies and from items in transit.

(1) All enterprise Crown corporations listed in this table are parent Crown corporations except the Seaway International Bridge Corporation, Ltd which is an unconsolidated subsidiary.

(2) Canada Development Investment Corporation (CDIC): During 1988, the operating assets of Canada Eldor Inc. (CEI) (formerly Eldorado Nuclear Limited) were transferred to Cameco - A Canadian Mining & Energy Corporation (Cameco) in exchange for notes and a 38.5% interest in Cameco. Also during 1988, the corporation acquired two subsidiaries from Atomic Energy of Canada Limited - Nordion International Inc. (Nordion) and Theratronics International Limited (Theratronics). On December 12, 1989, Bill C-13, an Act authorizing the divestiture of Nordion and Theratronics by CDIC was passed by the House of Commons. Pursuant to a directive received from the Government, CDIC acquired a 51% interest in Ginn Publishing Canada Inc. (Ginn) on May 26, 1989. The financial statements of Cartierville Financial Corporation Inc. (CFC) and CEI, have been consolidated with those of CDIC. The earnings of Nordion, Theratronics and Ginn and/or gains or losses on dispositions do not accrue to the benefit of CDIC, therefore, the investment is carried at the lower of cost and net realizable value.

(3) Subsequent to March 31, 1989, Petro Canada announced a retroactive change in accounting policy. This change is reflected in the values reported in Tables 6.4, 6.5,and 6.6. The effect was to reduce the government's equity by $1,188 million.

(4) On April 4,1987, the Teleglobe Canada Reorganization and Divestiture Act received Royal Assent pursuant to the letter of intent signed February 11,1987 selling the assets of Teleglobe Canada to Memotec Data Inc. The Corporation is potentially liable for bills of exchange. The liability amounts to £15,473,811 ($28,915,911)as at March 31,1990 and matures in 1993.

[1] This column records only that portion of financial assistance received or receivable from the federal Government that has been credited to operations. A further amount of $798,168 representing capital and operating appropriations received by the corporations is included in "Equity transactions with Government". Revenues "Other" include amounts generated from the sale of goods and services, investment income as well as grants where the corporations qualify as a member of a general class of recipients. The total financial assistance accounted for by the corporations during the year does not agree with the amount reported in Table 6.11 because of differences resulting from the different accounting policies followed.

Borrowings by Agent Enterprise Crown Corporations

Table 6.7 summarizes the borrowing transactions by agent enterprise Crown corporations made on behalf of Her Majesty. This information is published to satisfy Section 49 of the Financial Administration Act (FAA) which requires that "An annual statement of all borrowing transactions on behalf of Her Majesty shall be included in the Public Accounts". The borrowings are from other than the Government. In accordance with Section 54 of the FAA, the payment of all money borrowed by agent enterprise Crown corporations and interest thereon is a charge on and payable out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund. Such borrowings therefore constitute obligations of the Government and are recorded as such in the summary financial statements of Canada net of borrowings expected to be repaid directly by these corporations. As at March 31, 1990, an allowance for borrowings expected to be repaid by the Government was established at $3,550 million.

Borrowings by non-agent enterprise Crown corporations are not included in this table because such borrowings are not on behalf of Her Majesty. Table 6.8 provides information on borrowings of such corporations.

The amount of the credit drawn by December 31, 1951 was to be repaid in 50 annual instalments beginning on that date, with interest at the rate of 2% per annum, with the final instalment on December 31, 2000.

Deferred principal

The agreement, as amended in 1957, provides for the deferment of interest in respect of the year 1956 and of seven instalments of principal and interest after December 31, 1956, under certain conditions. Interest for 1956, and interest and principal for 1957, 1964, 1965, 1968 and 1976 were deferred. The maturity of the deferrals is to commence December 31, 2001, and continue until December 31, 2006.

Developing countries—International development assistance

Loan assistance has been made to developing countries for international development assistance. Since April 1, 1986, loans under negotiated loan agreements in existence at March 31, 1986 were made under various budgetary authorities (including External Affairs Votes 30, 30b and 30c, Appropriation Acts No 1, No 3, No 4 and No 5, 1989-90). Previous to this date, all loans to developing countries were paid under non-budgetary authority.

During the year, loans totalling $647,764,022 were forgiven pursuant to the Forgiveness of Debts (sub-Saharan Africa) Act.

The following table presents the balances and transactions for the loans made to developing countries, together with their terms and conditions of repayments. The closing balance of loans to individual countries includes, where applicable, total payments made under both budgetary and non-budgetary authorities. The total budgetary payments to all countries are deducted as a lump sum amount under the caption "Payments made under budgetary authority" at the end of the table to arrive at the amount reported in Table 6.13 as international development assistance to developing countries.

[1] The forgiveness of Debts (sub-Saharan Africa) Act authorized the forgiveness of official development assistance debts of this country.

[2] Joint project involving Mali and Senegal.

Similar assistance has been provided to developing countries by way of subscriptions to the capital of the International Development Association and loans to other international financial institutions. These are reported later in this section under the heading "International organizations".

Development of export trade

Pursuant to Section 31 of the Export Development Act, the Governor in Council may authorize the Corporation to make loans to foreign customers where the liability is for a term, or in an amount in excess of that normally assumed by the Corporation. Such loans are financed directly by payments out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund and are administered by the Corporation on behalf of the Government of Canada.

Since April 1, 1987, certain loans for the development of export trade are made under budgetary authority.

The following table presents the balances and transactions for the loans made to national governments, together with their terms and conditions of repayments. The closing balance of loans to national governments includes, where applicable, total payments made under both budgetary and non-budgetary authorities. The total budgetary payments are deducted as a lump sum amount under the caption "Payments made under budgetary authority" at the end of the table to arrive at the amount reported in Table 6.13.

North Atlantic Treaty Organization—Damage claims recoverable

Article VIII of the NATO Status of Forces Agreement signed April 4, 1949, as amended, deals with claims for damages to third parties arising from accidents in which a member of a visiting force is involved. This account is charged with the amount recoverable from other states, for claims for damages which took place in Canada, and is credited with recoveries.

The advances are non-interest bearing and have no specific repayment terms.

INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS

This group records Canada's subscriptions to the capital of the African Development Bank, the Asian Development Bank, the Caribbean Development Bank, the Inter-American Development Bank, the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (i.e. World Bank), the International Development Association and the International Finance Corporation. It also includes loans and advances to other international organizations.

Capital subscriptions are made in part by the issuance of non-interest bearing, non-negotiable demand notes. The amounts advanced or loaned vary according to the needs of the organizations concerned, and the terms of the agreements.

The net position of the Government vis-à-vis the international organizations has been obtained by deducting from subscriptions, loans and advances, the non-interest bearing notes issued by Canada to these organizations. These notes, payable on demand, represent that portion of the investment by Canada in these organizations which has not yet been encashed by them. These notes are encashed subject to the financial requirements of these organizations.

Since April 1, 1986, note encashments, and cash subscriptions/loans to international financial institutions are now made under budgetary authority. However, subscriptions/loans made by the issuance of non-interest bearing notes continue to be under non-budgetary authority.

Table 6.14 presents a summary of the balances and transactions for the subscriptions, loans and advances to international organizations. The closing balance of loans/subscriptions to international financial institutions includes, where applicable, total loans/subscriptions made under both budgetary and non-budgetary authorities. The total budgetary payments to all international financial institutions are deducted as a lump sum amount under the caption "Payments made under budgetary authority" at the end of the table to arrive at the total amount reported in Table 6.1 as International organizations (net). In addition, Table 6.15 presents additional disclosure of information related to subscriptions to the capital of international development institutions, as well as future commitments and contingent liabilities related to international development assistance as disclosed in Note 10 to the audited financial statements of the Government of Canada in Section 2 of this volume.

[1] Foreign currencies were translated into Canadian dollars using the closing rates of exchange at March 31, 1990 ($1US = $1.1695 Cdn; 1SDR = $1.521317 Cdn).

[2] Commitments to the institutions will require future "Maintenance of value" payments.
According to the Articles of Agreement of the World Bank, countries are obliged to maintain the value of certain portions of their paid-in capital subscriptions and contributions. The World Bank has not had a workable standard of value since 1978 when the formal link between the US dollar and gold was broken. The World Bank agreed not to seek payment of these obligations pending the establishment of a new standard of value for the Bank. Maintenance of value obligations do not exist for International Development Association contributions. In October 1986, the Executive Board agreed upon the "1974 SDR" as a successor standard of value. The 1974 SDR is a fixed US dollar equivalent of the value of the SDR prevailing in 1974 ($1.20635 US = 1 SDR). Maintenance of value payments resumed July 1, 1987. It is expected that other institutions will follow this lead.

[3] Canadian currency equivalent of 42,000,000 units of account. One unit = $1.20635 US = $1.1556 Cdn as of May 1979.

[4] Canadian currency equivalent of 126,000,000 units of account. One unit = $1.20635 US = $1.1556 Cdn as of May 1979.

[5] These amounts are reflected as non-lapsing non-budgetary authorities in the External Affairs ministerial section of Volume II, Part I (Section 9).

[6] This amount excludes a maintenance of value payment of $1,192,625.

[7] Canada's subscription is for 31,543 shares. Payments are accounted for as a proportion of each share.

[8] Total subscription valued at $3,805,190,000 US. Callable value translated at $1 US = $1.1695 Cdn, representing approximately 91% of the total subscription.

[9] Subscription and payment authorities are annual budgetary voted items presented in the Finance ministerial section of Volume II, Part I (Section 10).

[10] There are no outstanding subscriptions other than the notes payable in Table 6.14. Accounting is based on dollar values rather than number of shares.

[11] This represents a commitment by Canada to the capital of the Corporation to be paid by 1990, rather than a "callable" amount.

[12] Canada has agreed to lend the Enhanced Structural Adjustment Facility SDR 300 million and to subsidize the interest rate on the loan through a grant of approximately SDR 165 million, of which SDR 32.45 million has been paid-in. In addition, lines of credit of SDR 892.5 million have been made available to the IMF.

VETERANS' LAND ACT FUND ADVANCES

Advances have been made, under Parts I and III of the Veterans' Land Act, for the acquisition of land, permanent improvements, removal of encumbrances, purchase of stock and equipment, and protection of security. The total amount authorized to be outstanding at any time is $605,000,000.

A provision equal to 1/10 of the benefits to veterans was established each year up to and including 1978-79. Since that time, a forecast of requirements has been performed each year, and provisions are established as necessary. These provisions are charged to budgetary expenditure and credited to the allowance for conditional benefits account. The allowance for conditional benefits account represents the accumulated net provisions for benefits to veterans in the form of forgiveness of loans authorized by the Veterans' Land Act. These benefits come into effect only after certain conditions are fulfilled by the veterans. At the end of 10 years, the conditions having been met, the accumulated provision is charged to the allowance for conditional benefits account, and credited to the veteran's loan account.

During the year, loans totalling $11,398 were written-off by Veterans Affairs Votes 2b and 3c, Appropriation Acts No 4 and No 5, 1989-90.

Table 6.16 summarizes the balances and transactions for advances to the Veterans' Land Act Fund.

SPECIFIED PURPOSE ACCOUNTS

Specified purpose accounts represent the recorded value of the financial obligations of the Government of Canada in its role as administrator of certain public moneys received or collected for specified purposes, under or pursuant to the legislation, trusts, treaties, undertakings or contracts. These public moneys may be paid out only for the purposes specified in or pursuant to the legislation, trusts, treaties, undertakings or contracts.

Because of the dedicated purposes of these moneys, specific accounts are required to be maintained to provide an accounting mechanism to ensure that the moneys are used only for the purposes for which they were received or collected. Legislation relating to some accounts permits investments to be made and, in certain cases, the balances of the accounts earn interest.

This section gives details of specified purpose accounts on which summary information was given in Sections 1 and 2 of this volume.

Chart A presents the total specified purpose accounts by category for the current fiscal year, while Chart B compares the total specified purpose accounts for the last five fiscal years. Table 7.1 presents the transactions and year-end balances of specified purpose accounts by category.

Some tables in this section present the continuity of accounts, by showing the opening and closing balances, as well as receipts and other credits, and payments and other charges. In addition, the term "account(s) without current transactions" has been included in some tables, to show the net result of transactions in accounts which were closed out in the previous year.

The financial statements of the Canada Pension Plan Account and the Canada Pension Plan Investment Fund, the Government Annuities Account and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (Dependants) Pension Fund, together with the Auditor General's reports thereon, are presented at the end of this section.

Canada Pension Plan Account

The Canada Pension Plan is a compulsory contributory social insurance plan which enables members of the labour force to acquire and retain protection for themselves and their families against loss of income due to retirement, disability or death. Established in 1965, the Plan applies in all parts of Canada, except the Province of Quebec which has a comparable plan.

Under existing arrangements, all benefits and costs incurred in the administration of the program are financed from contributions made by employees, employers and self-employed persons, and the interest earned from the investment of funds.

The Government's financial obligation, as administrator of the Canada Pension Plan, is limited to the balance in the Account.

Table 7.2 presents a summary of the balances and transactions in the Canada Pension Plan Account less investment in securities of the federal, provincial and territorial governments held by the Canada Pension Plan Investment Fund.

(e) funds invested during the year in the securities of the federal, provincial and territorial governments.

Provinces and territories are advised monthly of the amount of excess moneys in the Canada Pension Plan Account that is available for the purchase of provincial and territorial securities. The amount available to each province and territory is the proportion that contributions made to the Plan during the preceding ten years in respect of employment in the province or territory bears to total contributions. Contributions received in respect of employment from employees outside Canada as well as any excess funds not invested in the securities of the provinces and territories are invested in the special non-marketable bonds of the Government of Canada.

Certain federal employees, such as members of the Canadian Armed Forces, who are resident in the Province of Quebec, contribute to the Canada Pension Plan. The securities of Quebec which are purchased by the Plan relate to the contributions of these employees.

On the Statement of Assets and Liabilities of the Government of Canada, the investment in securities issued by the federal, provincial and territorial governments as charged to the Canada Pension Plan Investment Fund, is deducted from the Canada Pension Plan Account.

Superannuation Accounts

The superannuation accounts liability includes the related specified purpose accounts as well as a supplementary allowance used to record any shortfall in the benefit obligations as determined on an actuarial basis.

The Government provides pensions to retired employees or their dependants through pension schemes authorized by the Public Service Superannuation Act, the Canadian Forces Superannuation Act and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Act. These pensions are indexed to the cost of living under authority of the Supplementary Retirement Benefits Act. The Government's liabilities in its role as sponsor and administrator of these pension plans in respect of its employees and certain other contributors, are recorded in the relevant superannuation accounts.

Legislation for basic pensions provides for employee contributions (6 1/2% of salary less contributions to the Canada Pension Plan), employer contributions (prior year's employee contributions for members of the Public Service, and approximately 1.8 and 2.0 times current year's employee contributions for members of the Canadian Forces and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police respectively), allocation of interest (average market yield of 20 year Canada bonds weighted by the quarterly excess of receipts over disbursements in the three accounts each quarter over 20 years), and actuarial valuation deficiencies. Legislation for indexing basic pensions provides for additional employee contributions (1% of salary), matching employer contributions and allocation of interest (current rate of 5 year Canada bonds).

Receipts and other credits for the superannuation accounts consist of contributions from personnel, related contributions from the Government and participating Public Service corporations, transfers from other pension funds, other Government contributions related to actuarial liability adjustments (not applicable to the Supplementary Retirement Benefits Account), and interest. Payments and other charges for the superannuation accounts consist of payments of pensions, minimum benefits, cash termination allowances (lump sum payments to employees suffering a disability), refunds of contributions and transfers to other plans.

The Public Pensions Reporting Act, as passed by the House of Commons on February 10, 1986, requires that actuarial reviews be conducted at a date not later than four years after the last review date and, thereafter, at dates not more than three years apart, for each of the employer-sponsored pension plans, and the portion of the Supplementary Retirement Benefits Account that relates to these plans. As specified in that Act, the last review dates are deemed to be December 31, 1986 for the Public Service Superannuation Account, December 31, 1987 for the Canadian Forces Superannuation Account, and December 31, 1985 for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Account.

In accordance with the legislation governing the basic portion of the three superannuation plans, the Minister of Finance has the authority to direct that any actuarial deficiency found will be credited to the appropriate account, charged to unamortized portion of actuarial deficiencies, and amortized to expenditure in five equal annual instalments commencing in the year in which the actuarial report is laid before Parliament. In addition, the cost of added liabilities, created by the authorization of salary increases each year, is credited to the superannuation accounts, charged to unamortized portion of actuarial deficiencies, and amortized to expenditure over a period of five years commencing in the year in which the increases are authorized. In the current year, there were no actuarial deficiencies relating to each of the basic accounts.

Since the quarter ending September 30, 1969, the regulations, made pursuant to each of the superannuation acts, have provided for the calculation of interest on the basic accounts at a rate related to the Canada Pension Plan interest rate (currently 6.5% per annum for the Public Service, Canadian Forces and Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Accounts).

Table 7.4 presents a summary of the balances and transactions for the superannuation accounts including the amortization of actuarial deficiencies.

Table 7.5 presents a summary of transactions in the superannuation accounts that resulted in charges to budgetary expenditure. In 1989-90, $8,235 million was charged to budgetary expenditure on account of superannuation plans. This was composed of Government contributions, $896 million; increased superannuation benefits paid during the year due to indexation in excess of the superannuates' share of contributions plus interest to the Supplementary Retirement Benefits Account, $966 million; and, interest, $6,373 million.

Supplementary Retirement Benefits Account

This account was established by the Supplementary Retirement Benefits Act, to provide for the payment of increased pension benefits resulting from indexation.

Increased superannuation benefits paid during the year due to indexation amounted to $1,060 million ($970 million in 1988-89), of which $966 million ($899 million in 1988-89) represents benefits to superannuates in excess of their share of contributions to the account which has been charged to budgetary expenditure. The payments charged to budgetary expenditure on behalf of contributors amounted to $561 million ($528 million in 1988-89) for the Public Service Superannuation Account of which it is estimated that $45 million ($43 million in 1988-89) pertains to former employees of Public Service corporations, $376 million ($344 million in 1988-89) for the Canadian Forces Superannuation Account, and $29 million ($27 million in 1988-89) for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Account. An amount of $94 million ($71 million in 1988-89) was charged to the Supplementary Retirement Benefits Account.

Allowance for Actuarial Liability for Employee Pensions

This account records the allowance for the actuarial present value of unfunded supplementary retirement benefits in respect of benefits earned or in pay, as well as for the unfunded pension liability of the federally appointed judges pension plan and Members of Parliament retiring allowances as at March 31, 1990.

Government Annuities Account

This account was established by the Government Annuities Act, and modified by the Government Annuities Improvement Act, which discontinued sales of annuities in 1975. The account is valued on an actuarial basis each year, with the deficit or surplus charged or credited to the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

The purpose of the Government Annuities Act was to assist Canadians to provide for their later years, by the purchase of Government annuities. The Government Annuities Improvement Act increased the rate of return and flexibility of Government annuity contracts.

Receipts and other credits consist of premiums received, funds reclaimed from the Consolidated Revenue Fund for previously unlocated annuitants, earned interest and items transferred from previous years' revenue to cover the actuarial deficit. Payments and other charges represent matured annuities, the commuted value of death benefits, premium refunds and withdrawals, and actuarial surpluses and unclaimed items transferred to non-tax revenue. The amounts of unclaimed annuities, related to annuitants who cannot be located, are transferred to non-tax revenue.

During the year, debts totalling $16,930 were written-off pursuant to Employment and Immigration Vote 6c, Appropriation Act No 5, 1989-90.

Deposit and Trust Accounts

Deposit and trust accounts is a group of liabilities representing the Government's financial obligations in its role as administrator of certain moneys that it has received or collected for specified purposes and that it will pay out accordingly. To the extent that the funds received are represented by securities, these are deducted from the corresponding accounts to show the Government's net liability.

Table 7.10 presents a summary of the balances and transactions in deposit and trust accounts.

1. (a) Description and authority

The Canada Pension Plan is a 1965 Act of Parliament, to establish a comprehensive program of old age pensions and supplementary benefits in Canada, payable to, and in respect of, contributors. This compulsory and contributory social insurance plan (the Plan) enables members of the labour force to acquire and retain protection for themselves and their families against loss of income due to retirement, disability or death. The Plan applies in all parts of Canada, except for the Province of Quebec which has a parallel plan.

Under the existing Canada Pension Plan legislation, benefits and costs incurred in the administration of the Plan are financed from the contributions made by employees, employers and self-employed persons and from interest earned on the investment of funds not immediately needed for benefits and administrative costs.

The Canada Pension Plan Account (the Account) was established in the accounts of Canada by Section 108.(1) of the Canada Pension Plan to record the contributions, interest, benefits and expenses of the Plan. The authority to pay benefits under the Plan is limited to the balance of the Account which was $39,445 million at March 31, 1990.

The Canada Pension Plan Investment Fund (the Fund) was established in the accounts of Canada by Section 109.(1) of the Canada Pension Plan to record the investment in securities of the provinces, territories and Canada.

(b) Financing

The Canada Pension Plan was amended by Bill C-116 with effect from January 1, 1987. The revised legislation requires that the first review of the 25 year schedule of contribution rates shall take place prior to January 1, 1992, and all subsequent reviews shall take place every fifth year thereafter. Based on this review, the Minister of Finance and ministers of the Crown from the included provinces and territories shall review the rates set out in the schedule, and make recommendations as to whether those rates should be changed and as to whether the schedule should be amended to include contribution rates for an additional five years.

Any major amendments to the Plan that would alter the general level of benefits or the rate of contributions, requires agreement by at least two-thirds of the 10 provinces having an aggregate of not less than two-thirds of the population.

The current schedule of contribution rates provides for an increase, from the 1986 rates of 3.6%, progressively by 0.2 percentage points each year until 1991, and by 0.15 percentage points thereafter until 2011, when it will reach 7.6%.

The Minister of Finance, and ministers of the Crown from the included provinces and territories, are currently reviewing the contribution rates in line with statutory requirements. This review will be completed in time to put the new 25 year contribution rate schedule into effect by January 1, 1992.

The most recent Actuarial Report as at December 31, 1988, by the Chief Actuary of the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions, reveals that the desirable 2:1 ratio (to be maintained in accordance with the provisions of section 113.1 (4) (c) of the revised legislation) of the Canada Pension Plan Account balance to projected annual payments, will be maintained until 1999. This report was tabled in Parliament in January 1990.

2. Accounting policies

Canada Pension Plan Account

The amounts credited and charged to the Account are in accordance with Sections 108.(2) and 108.(3) of the Canada Pension Plan, respectively. Contributions, interest and benefits are recorded on a cash basis. Contributions are received from Revenue Canada—Taxation based on estimates of collections for the current year and adjustments to the estimates of prior years. Expenses are recorded on an accrual basis. The balance of the Account represents the accumulated excess of contributions and interest over benefits and expenses to date.

Canada Pension Plan Investment Fund

The amounts charged and credited to the Fund are in accordance with Section 109.(2) of the Canada Pension Plan. All securities held are carried at cost, are non-negotiable and have a term of 20 years or such lesser period as may be determined by the Minister of Finance on the recommendation of the Chief Actuary of the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions.

The weighted average rate of interest on securities purchased during the year was 9.90% (1989: 10.08%).

4. Expenses

Expenses of the Account represent the costs of administration charged by six federal government departments: Health and Welfare (administration); Revenue Canada—Taxation (collection of contributions); Supply and Services (cheque issue and computer services); Public Works (accommodation); Employment and Immigration (assignment of social insurance numbers and maintenance of central index); and, the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions (actuarial services).

5. Investment in securities

Operating balances on deposit with the Receiver General in excess of estimated cash requirements for the following three-month period are available for purchases of securities of the provinces, territories and Canada. As required by the Canada Pension Plan, the monies available for security purchases are allocated to the provinces and territories based on the proportion of contributions credited to the Account during the preceding 10 years in respect of employment in a given province or a territory to the total contributions in those years. The portion attributed to certain other employees outside Canada continues to be invested in securities of Canada.

The securities of Quebec relate to the contributions of certain federal employees, such as members of the Canadian Armed Forces, who are residents in the Province of Quebec.

6. Contingency

Two legal actions are pending in the Federal Court of Canada, Trial Division citing the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms. These actions, by claimants for survivor benefits, allege that certain provisions of the Canada Pension Plan legislation discriminate on the basis of age. The estimated claim for these actions is $34,484. If they are successful, similar claims against the Canada Pension Plan Account could arise amounting to $170 million.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS MARCH 31, 1990

1. Authority and purpose

The Government Annuities Account was established in 1908 by the Government Annuities Act, (the "Act"), as modified by the Government Annuities Improvement Act, (the "Improvement Act").

The purpose of the Act was to assist individuals and groups of Canadians to provide for their later years by purchasing Government annuities. The Improvement Act increased the rate of return on Government annuity contracts to a rate of seven percent, increased their flexibility and discontinued future sales.

The Account is administered by the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission and operates through the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

2. Significant accounting policies

(a) Basis of accounting

The accounts of the Government Annuities Account are maintained on an accrual basis.

(b) Actuarial reserves

Actuarial reserves comprise: (i) in respect of unmatured annuities, accumulated premiums and accrued interest, and (ii) in respect of matured annuities, the present value of such annuities actuarially determined on the basis of such rate or rates of interest and mortality tables as is prescribed.

(c) Actuarial surplus due to Canada

If at the end of any fiscal year the recorded amount of actuarial reserves exceeds or is less than the calculated amount of actuarial reserves, the difference results in an actuarial surplus or deficit which is remitted to or recovered from the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

(d) Interest from Canada

Interest from Canada is calculated on actuarial reserves as prescribed by the Improvement Act.

(e) Unclaimed annuities

Unclaimed annuities represent amounts transferred to the Consolidated Revenue Fund in respect of annuities that could not be paid because the annuitants could not be located.

(f) Services provided without charge

Administrative services are provided to the Account by the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission and by other Government departments without charge.

Government Annuities Account—Concluded

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
MARCH 31, 1990—Concluded

3. Actuarial reserves

The method utilized to calculate the actuarial reserves of $904,327,000 (1989—$945,224,000) is in accordance with subsection 15(1) of the Government Annuities Improvement Act and the Regulations pertaining thereto.

The Government Annuities Regulations provide that the Mortality Tables to be used in determining the values of annuities shall be the Annuity Tables for 1949 modified by Projection Scale C.

The Commission undertakes an annual review of mortality experience to monitor the appropriateness of the mortality tables for valuation purposes. The results of the last study, completed in March 1990, indicate that the mortality tables in use continue to be appropriate for such purposes.

NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENT MARCH 31, 1990

1. Authority and operations

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police (Dependants) Pension Fund was established in 1934 by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Pension Continuation Act. The Act provides for members of the Force, other than commissioned officers, appointed before March 1, 1949, to purchase certain survivorship benefits for their dependants by payment of specified contributions. The Fund is credited with these contributions together with interest computed quarterly on the balance to the credit of the Fund at the end of the preceding quarter, and charged with contributions withdrawn and pensions. All transactions of the Fund are made through the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

Section 56 of the Act directs the Minister of Finance to have an actuarial valuation of the Fund made at least once every 5 years. If the actuarial valuation discloses a surplus, the Governor in Council may, by order, increase pensions. If there is an actuarial deficiency, the Governor in Council may direct that there be credited to the Fund, out of any unappropriated moneys in the Consolidated Revenue Fund, such amount as may be required to re-establish solvency of the Fund.

2. Significant accounting policy

Revenues and expenditures are recorded on the accrual basis.

3. Supplementary information

The most recent actuarial valuation was made as at March 31, 1988. The valuation disclosed an actuarial surplus of $2,422,873. A portion of the surplus was distributed by an increase in the basic pension amount of 20% as at April 1, 1989 with a further increase of 20% to be effective April 1, 1990.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE ACCOUNTS

Foreign exchange accounts represent financial claims and obligations of the Government of Canada which are identified with Canada's foreign exchange operations. Financial claims and obligations denominated in foreign currencies are reported at Canadian dollar equivalents at March 31. Net gains resulting from the translation of the net assets denominated in foreign currencies, to Canadian dollar equivalents as at March 31, are credited to revenue as premium and discount on exchange, and net losses are charged to budgetary expenditure of the Department of Finance.

Chart A compares the foreign exchange assets and liabilities for the last five fiscal years. Table 9.1 presents the continuity of each foreign exchange account, by showing the opening and closing balances, as well as receipts and other credits, and payments and other charges. It should be noted, however, that this table excludes unmatured debt payable in foreign currencies, amounting to $5,675 million as at March 31, 1990 ($8,320 million as at March 31, 1989); details relating to these obligations are presented in Section 10 of this volume.

International Monetary Fund—Subscriptions

This account records the value of Canada's subscription (its "quota") to the capital of the International Monetary Fund (IMF).

The amount by which the sum of Canada's subscriptions plus loans to the IMF under special facilities exceeds the IMF's holdings of Canadian dollars represents the amount of foreign exchange which Canada is entitled to draw from the IMF on demand for balance of payments purposes. The subscription is expressed in terms of the SDR, a unit of account defined in terms of a "basket" of five major currencies.

Canada has accumulated its subscriptions through settlements to the IMF in Canadian dollars, gold and SDRs. Annual maintenance of value payments are made to, or received from, the IMF when the Canadian dollar depreciates or appreciates against the SDR, in order to maintain the SDR-value of the IMF's holdings of Canadian dollars. In 1989-90, receipts and other credits consisted of a maintenance of value adjustment of $53.8 million and a valuation adjustment of $5.7 million.

International Monetary Fund—Notes Payable

This account records non-marketable, non-interest bearing notes issued by the Government of Canada to the IMF. These notes are payable on demand and are subject to redemption or re-issue, depending on the needs of the IMF for Canadian currency.

Canadian dollar holdings of the IMF include these notes and a small working balance (initially equal to one-quarter of one percent of Canada's subscription) held on deposit at the Bank of Canada. In 1989-90, notes payable to the IMF decreased by $125.4 million.

Special Drawing Rights Allocations

This account records the value of SDRs allocated to Canada by the IMF. The Special Drawing Right is an international currency created by the IMF, and allocated to countries participating in its Special Drawing Rights Department. It represents a liability of Canada, as circumstances could arise whereby Canada could be called upon to repay these allocations, in part or in total.

As an asset, SDRs represent rights to purchase currencies of other countries participating in the IMF's Special Drawing Rights Department, as well as to make payments to the IMF itself. All SDRs allocated to Canada by the IMF have either been used to settle subscriptions in the IMF, or have been advanced to the Exchange Fund Account.

There was no allocation of SDRs by the IMF to Canada during the year. In 1989-90, payments and other charges consisted of a valuation adjustment of $15.8 million.

SUPPLEMENTARY STATEMENT

Exchange Fund Account

AUDITOR'S REPORT

TO THE MINISTER OF FINANCE

I have examined the balance sheet of the Exchange Fund Account as at December 31, 1989 and the statement of income for the year then ended. My examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests and other procedures as I considered necessary in the circumstances.

In my opinion, the Exchange Fund Account for the year ended December 31, 1989 has complied, in all significant respects, with the applicable provisions of the Currency Act.

Further, in my opinion, the financial statements present fairly the financial position of the Exchange Fund Account as at December 31, 1989 and the results of its operations for the year then ended in accordance with the accounting policies set out in Note 2 to the financial statements applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

The main objective of the Account is to aid in the control and protection of the external value of the Canadian dollar and the Minister acquires for the Account those assets which are deemed appropriate for this purpose in accordance with the Act.

2. Significant accounting policies

Valuation of assets

US dollar securities, Special Drawing Rights (SDRs) and International Monetary Fund (IMF) notes are adjusted for amortized premiums and discounts where applicable, and include accrued interest. Gold includes gold loans and accrued interest on gold loans. The Minister of Finance determines the gold valuation policy of the Account (Note 6). Cash and short-term deposits include accrued interest where applicable.

Translation of foreign currencies and SDRs

Assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated into Canadian dollars at the year-end exchange rates in the Canadian foreign exchange market. Assets and liabilities denominated in SDRs are first translated into US dollars at the year-end US dollar value of the SDR, as calculated by the IMF, and then into Canadian dollars. Investment income in foreign currencies is translated into Canadian dollars at the foreign exchange rates prevailing on the date the income is recorded. The assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies and SDRs have been translated into Canadian dollars at the following year-end exchange rates:

	1989	1988
US dollar	1.158500	1.192500
Japanese yen	0.008048	0.009547

Valuation gains and losses

Valuation gains and losses include the increases and decreases in the value of assets and liabilities arising from the translation of foreign currencies and SDRs during the year and at year end. Valuation gains and losses also include gains or losses on transactions in foreign currencies, SDRs and gold, and on the liquidation of liabilities.

Disposition of net income or loss

The net income or loss for the year, including net valuation gains and losses, is payable or chargeable to the Consolidated Revenue Fund (CRF) within three months after the end of the year in accordance with the Currency Act.

Services provided without charge

Exchange Fund Account—Concluded

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 1989—Concluded

7. Official international reserve assets

The Account is the principal repository of Canada's official international reserves. At December 31, 1989 total reserves amounted to $US 16.8 billion (1988—$US 16.2 billion) of which the EFA accounted for $US 13.6 billion (1988—$US 13.6 billion). The remainder $US 3.2 billion (1988—$US 2.6 billion) is held by the Bank of Canada and the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

8. Provision for valuation losses on uncompleted contracts

At year end, the Account had uncompleted foreign exchange transactions and swaps. As the exchange rates on these uncompleted contracts differ from the year-end rates at which the Account's assets and liabilities are valued, additional gains or losses will occur upon settlement. The provision for valuation gains or losses on uncompleted contracts arises from the revaluation of such contracts using the year-end rates of exchange and represents the portion of future net gains or losses attributed to the current year.

Under swap arrangements with the Bank of Canada, the Account sells US dollars to the Bank and agrees to repurchase these amounts at the same exchange rates at which they were sold. These contracts are undertaken to assist in the Bank's cash management operations. Outstanding swaps with the Bank of Canada at year end amounted to US $2,431 million in 1989 (Cdn $2,820 million) and US $1,989 million in 1988 (Cdn $2,375 million).

9. Due to the Consolidated Revenue Fund—Advances

The Account is funded by advances from the Consolidated Revenue Fund. They are currently limited to C$ 25 billion by Order in Council dated June 30, 1988. No interest is charged to the Account on these advances.

Repayment of foreign currency debt is made using the resources of the Account. Interest payable by Canada on borrowings in foreign currencies and charges on SDR allocations is charged directly to the CRF.

UNMATURED DEBT

Unmatured debt represents financial obligations resulting from certificates of indebtedness issued by the Government of Canada that have not yet become due.

The Government's holdings of its own securities have been deducted from unmatured debt, to report the amount of the Government's liabilities to outside parties.

Some tables in this section present the continuity of accounts, by showing the opening and closing balances, as well as issues and retirements. In addition, the term "account(s) without current transactions" has been included in some tables, to show the net result of transactions in accounts which were closed out in the previous year.

Chart A presents unmatured debt by category for the current fiscal year while Chart B compares unmatured debt for the last five fiscal years. Table 10.1 presents the transactions and year-end balances of unmatured debt.

Note: this table includes unmatured debt issued by the Government of Canada. Borrowings of agent enterprise Crown corporations which are unconditional obligations of the Government, but not included in unmatured debt, can be found in Table 10.11.

[1] This account is now reported in Table 7.2 (Section 7 of this volume).

[2] In 1989-90, changes have been made in accounting policies, and certain Crown corporations are now part of the Government's reporting entity. The changes were applied retroactively and the previous year's deficit and accumulated deficit have been restated for consistency. Additional information is provided in Section 5 of this volume (Table 5.1) and in the audited financial statements (Section 2 of this volume).

Marketable Bonds

Marketable bonds are interest-bearing certificates of indebtedness issued by the Government of Canada, and have the following characteristics:

—bought and sold on the open market;

—payable in Canadian or foreign currency;

—subject to call or redemption before maturity;

—fixed dates of maturity;

—interest payable either in coupon or registered form; and,

—face value guaranteed at maturity.

Registered marketable bonds are transferable by endorsement and delivery by one holder to another. Bearer marketable bonds need not be endorsed.

Table 10.2 presents a summary of the balances and transactions for marketable bonds. Since most of the marketable bonds are not subject to call or redemption before maturity, exceptions only are noted in the table.

The year-end balances of marketable bonds payable in foreign currencies were translated into Canadian dollars using the closing rates of exchange at March 31, 1990.

Canada Bills

Canada bills are short-term certificates of indebtedness issued by the Government of Canada in the United States money markets under the Government's foreign currency borrowing program. Canada bills provide Canada with an additional source of short-term U.S. funds and have the following characteristics:

—issued at a discount in lieu of interest payments;

—term to maturity of not more than 270 days;

—transferable; and,

—bought and sold on the open market.

The year-end balance of Canada bills payable in US dollars was translated into Canadian dollars using the closing rate of exchange at March 31, 1990.

Table 10.7 presents a monthly summary of Canada bill issues and redemptions.

Statement of all Borrowing Transactions on behalf of Her Majesty

Table 10.11 presents the information required by Section 49 of the Financial Administration Act. The borrowing transactions included in this table are: borrowings by the Government for general purposes, and borrowings by agent enterprise Crown corporations which are reported as such on the Government's Statement of Assets and Liabilities, except where the Government is the lender. Borrowings by non-agent enterprise Crown corporations are not included because such borrowings are not on behalf of Her Majesty.

Cash in hands of collectors and in transit

This account records public moneys received by public officers prior to April 1, but not deposited to the credit of the Receiver General for Canada in the Bank of Canada, before that date.

Moneys received after March 31 but applicable to the current year

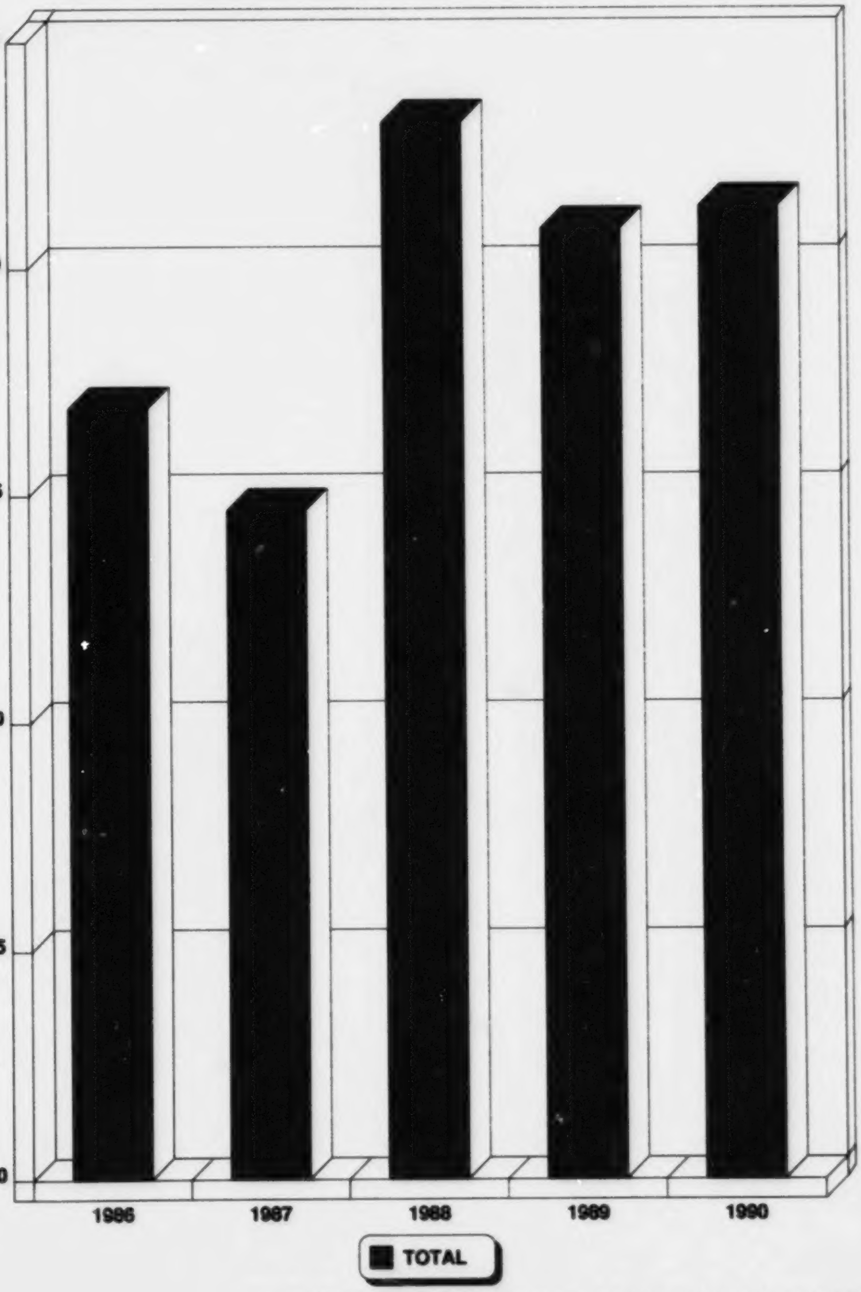
Public moneys received after March 31, but applicable to the year just ended, are recorded in this account.

This account includes refunds of old year expenditure received prior to the closing of the accounts, and receipts to be credited to asset, liability, and (in exceptional cases) revenue accounts, where the omission of the credits in the old year would tend to make the accounting incomplete or inconsistent.

Other cash—Consolidated Crown corporations

This account records the cash position of the consolidated Crown corporations. These funds are not public moneys to the credit of the Receiver General for Canada but are for the exclusive use of these Crown corporations.

CHART B
CASH IN TRANSIT
(in billions of dollars)



Cash

The Government's cash account represents public moneys on deposit at March 31, to the credit of the Receiver General for Canada, with the Bank of Canada, chartered banks and other financial institutions.

The cash position of the Government is affected not only by budgetary transactions, but also by non-budgetary, foreign exchange and unmatured debt transactions, all of which must be taken into account when considering the full scope of the Government's financial operations.

Table 11.3 presents a summary of the balances and related transactions in current and special Receiver General deposits. Chart C compares cash for the last five fiscal years.

The year-end balances denominated in foreign currencies have been translated into Canadian dollar equivalents at year-end closing rates of exchange. Foreign currencies held include United Kingdom pounds sterling, United States dollars, Belgian, Swiss and French francs, and West German marks.

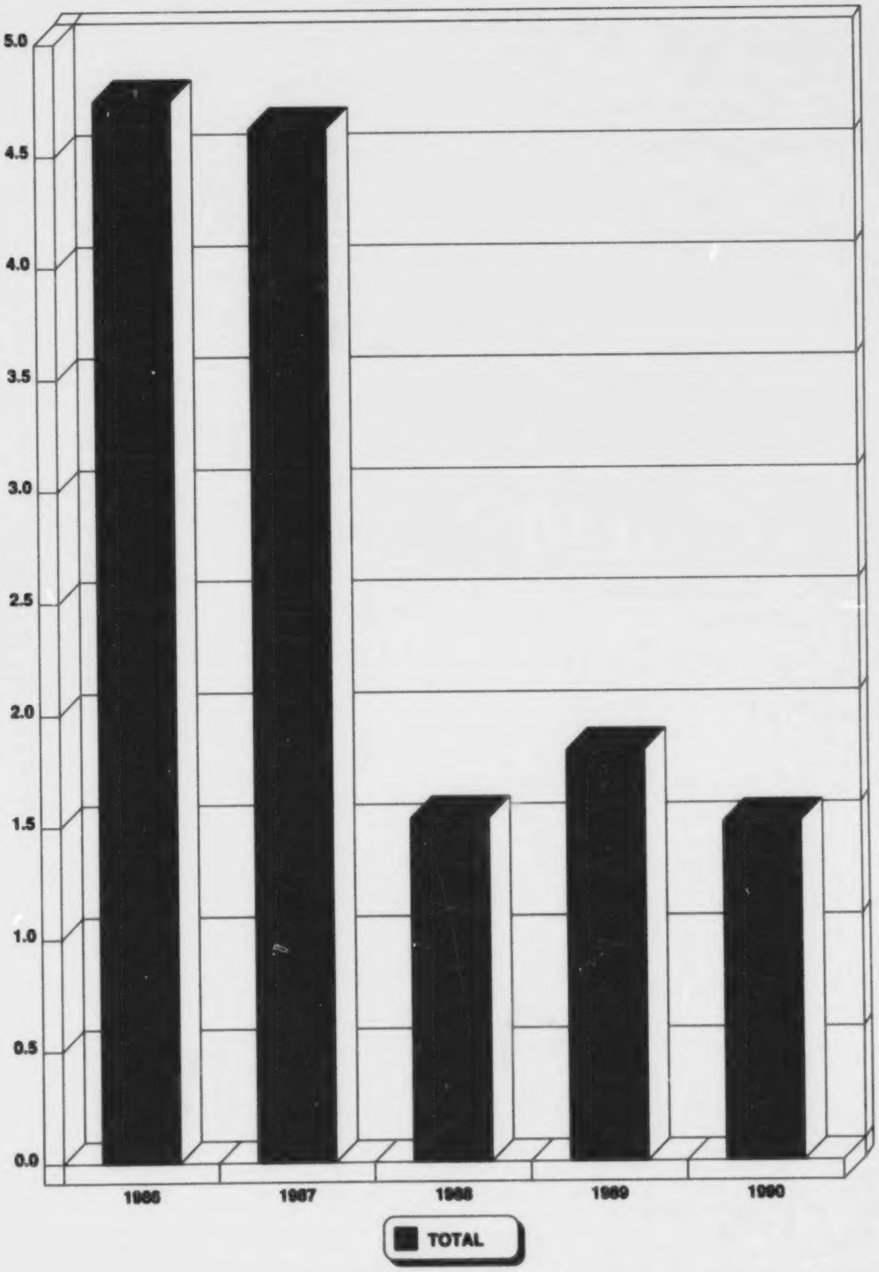
CHART C
CASH
(in billions of dollars)



Fixed Assets

Fixed assets are tangible, durable items of value, including major additions or alterations thereto, from which benefits are expected to be derived during their useful lives.

The fixed assets of the Government, which include land, engineering structures and works (such as canals, harbours and roads), buildings, and machinery and equipment, are charged to budgetary expenditure at the time of acquisition or construction, in accordance with the accounting policies of the Government of Canada which are described in Note 1 to the audited financial statements (Section 2 of this volume). Their existence, however, is acknowledged on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities by reporting them at the nominal value of $1.

Accumulated Deficit

The accumulated deficit is the account recording the net sum of annual deficits and surpluses of the Government of Canada since Confederation, together with certain amounts charged or credited directly to this account. The accumulated deficit is also equal to the excess of recorded liabilities over total financial assets.

A Statement of Accumulated Deficit is published in Section 2 of this volume.

Table 11.6 presents a five year comparative statement of the accumulated deficit, in terms of total liabilities and total financial assets. Chart D compares the accumulated deficit in terms of total liabilities and total financial assets for the last five fiscal years.

Contractual Commitments

A contractual commitment represents a written obligation to outside organizations or individuals as a result of a contract. The nature of the Government's activities requires it to enter into contracts that are significant in relation to its current financial position or that will materially affect the level of future expenditure. Major capital assets of the Government are either purchased outright or leased. Where a lease transfers substantially all of the benefits and risks incidental to ownership of the property to the lessee, it is considered a capital lease. All other leases are classified as operating leases. Contractual commitments can be classified into four categories: fixed assets, purchases, operating leases and capital leases.

All contractual commitments of $100 million or more per project are reported in the case of fixed assets, purchases and operating leases. In the case of capital leases, all capital lease arrangements with total minimum lease payments remaining at year end in excess of $1 million per contract are reported.

In accordance with the Government's significant accounting policies, the contractual commitments of consolidated Crown corporations are included with those of the Government.

Fixed assets, purchases and operating leases

Table 11.7 provides details of contractual commitments that involve fixed assets, operating leases and purchases. It discloses individual contractual commitments by category and by entity. Contractual commitments are summarized in Note 15 to the audited financial statements in Section 2 of this volume.

Fixed assets are tangible, durable items of value, including major additions or alterations thereto and including military equipment, from which benefits are expected to be derived during their useful life and including land.

Purchase commitments are commitments supported by a contract to supply goods or services. An operating lease is a lease in which the lessor does not transfer substantially all the benefits and risks incident to ownership of property.

Capital Leases

Table 11.8 provides details of commitments under capital lease arrangements which are summarized in Note 15 to the audited financial statements in Section 2 of this volume. A capital lease is a lease that, from the point of view of the Government, transfers substantially all the benefits and risks incident to ownership of the asset to the Government. Table 11.9 presents commitments under capital lease arrangements in order of maturity. There were no purchase options exercised during the year.

Insurance Programs of Agent Enterprise Crown Corporations

At present, three Crown corporations operate insurance programs as agents of Her Majesty. An insurance program is a program where the insured, an outside party, pays an insurance fee which is credited to an insurance fund or provision operated by the corporation. The amount of the fee is based on the estimated amount of insurance fund or provision needed to meet future claims. Insurance programs operated by private corporations such as employee group insurance, dental plans, etc, are not included in this definition.

The insurance programs are intended to operate on a self-sustaining basis but in recent years, two of the Crown corporations have required loans or other funding from the Government to meet obligations.

Information presented in Table 11.10 has not been audited since the information presented therein is derived from interim financial statements. The most recent annual financial statements of these corporations may be found in Volume III of the Public Accounts.

In Table 11.10, a minus "–" sign preceding the amount reported indicates a fund deficit, an expense recovery or adjustment, or a decrease or loss during the year.

[1] The Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation (CDIC) provides insurance on deposits placed with member banks and trust and loan companies for up to $60,000 per depositor, per institution. In recent years, premiums paid by member institutions have not been sufficient to meet obligations incurred by CDIC under the insurance plan. This deficiency has been funded, in part, by loans from the Government of $1,375 million at March 31, 1990 ($1,695 million at March 31, 1989). The Government is continuing to explore alternatives to allow CDIC, over the long run, to eliminate its deficiency without budgetary support from the Government. Since there is no reason to believe that this will not be the case, no provision has been made in the accounts of Canada for the losses experienced by CDIC.

[2] Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) administers four funds of which the Mortgage Insurance Fund (MIF) and the Mortgage-Backed Securities Guarantee Fund are active. The MIF provides insurance for a fee, to private sector lending institutions to cover mortgage lending on Canadian housing. Besides establishing a framework of confidence for mortgage lending by private institutions, the Fund facilitates an adequate supply of mortgage funds by reducing the risk to lenders and by encouraging the secondary market trading of mortgages, to make housing more accessible for Canadians. An actuarial study of the MIF as of September 30, 1989 disclosed that the Fund is more than sufficient to pay all future claims with respect to business in force. The surplus as at September 30, 1989 was estimated to be $4.2 million. The Mortgage-Backed Securities (MBS) program was implemented in 1987. For a fee paid by approved financial institutions, CMHC and ultimately the Government, guarantee timely payment of principal and interest to MBS investors who participate in a pool of MIF insured first residential mortgages which have been repackaged by the financial institution into investments of $5,000 denominations. Since 1984, the Corporation has also operated the Mortgage Rate Protection Program (MRPP). As premiums collected by CMHC for the Program are remitted directly to the Consolidated Revenue Fund (CRF) and obligations of the MRPP are ultimately payable from the CRF, the Mortgage Rate Protection Program does not meet the definition of a Crown corporation insurance plan as defined above. Therefore, operating particulars of this Program are not included in this summary but some information will be found in the notes to the Government of Canada Statement of Contingent Liabilities.

[3] The Export Development Corporation (EDC) provides export and foreign investment insurance to Canadian business to facilitate and develop export trade. The insurance fund has been adequate to provide for the full cost of claims experienced to date and to establish an allowance for future claims based on previous claims experience.

[4] Less than $500,000.

[5] Refers to the difference between claims and amounts received from sales of related assets and other recoveries.

Contingent Liabilities

A contingent liability is a potential liability which may become an actual liability when one or more future events occur or fail to occur.

For the purpose of reporting contingent liabilities, the Government of Canada is defined as all organizations which are accountable for the administration of their affairs and resources either to a Minister of the Government or directly to Parliament, and which are owned or controlled by the Government. Except for Government enterprises, all Government organizations are accounted in the financial statements by consolidation. Government enterprises are accounted for by the cost method and are defined to be those corporate organizations that sell goods and services to individuals and non-government organizations as their principal activity, and are not appropriation-dependent.

Consequently, the contingent liabilities of consolidated Crown corporations are included with those of the Government in Table 11.11 but in summary form only. For further details of contingent liabilities of consolidated Crown corporations,refer to Table 5.5—"Contingent Liabilities of Consolidated Crown Corporations". Particulars of contingent liabilities of enterprise Crown corporations are not consolidated with those of the Government but details of these contingencies may be found in Table 6.10—"Contingent Liabilities of Enterprise Crown Corporations". Some Crown corporations also operate insurance programs. Information regarding these insurance programs can be found in Table 11.10 of this section.

The contingent liabilities of the Government comprise explicit guarantees by the Government, which include borrowings by other than Crown corporations, both from agent Crown corporations and from other than agents. Such explicit guarantees consist of guarantee programs of the Government, explicit guarantees by the Government for loans, financial arrangements and other potential liabilities, insurance programs of the Government and other explicit guarantees. They also comprise potential losses arising from pending and threatened litigation relating to claims and assessments in respect of breach of contract, damages to persons and property, and like items. Pending and threatened litigation is reported in total as are the contingent liabilities of consolidated Crown corporations in the following table. This table is also summarized in Note 17 to the audited financial statements of the Government in Section 2 of this volume.

[1] The authorized limits indicated in the preceding statement, represent the aggregate total of various types of authorities of Government bodies as stipulated in legislation, legal agreements or other documents that may be in force at any one time.

[2] A contingent liability is a potential liability which may become an actual liability when one or more future events occur or fail to occur.

[3] Represents the average percentage over the most recent 5 years of net claims to the average amount of outstanding guarantees for the same period computed as at March 31, 1990. In some situations, where historical data is not readily available, departmental estimates have been used.

[4] Includes committed guarantees for the following loans to be made: to Indians for on-reserve housing, $76,776,202 and for Indian economic development, $806,489. As at the reporting date, no loans had been issued for these amounts.

[5] A letter of comfort has been issued by the Minister of Finance with respect to loan guarantees provided by the Bank of Canada to the Bank for International Settlements. The letter pertains to a short-term bridge financing operation in favour of Venezuela. The Government's potential and actual liability at March 31, 1990 was $1,200,000 US.

[6] The Act places limits on the maximum amount of guarantee for loans made by eligible lenders over different loan periods. The maximum amount of guarantee by lender is expressed in legislation as a percentage of aggregate loans made to qualified borrowers and varies according to the dollar value range of aggregate loans made by the lender. The authorized limits for given loan periods are included in the figure reported until all qualified loans made by all eligible lenders in the given periods are no longer outstanding, and are not adjusted for loan repayments nor payments made by the Government for guaranteed amounts in which default has occurred.

[7] The Atlantic Enterprise Program offers loan insurance on new term loans for the establishment, expansion or modernization of commercial operations in eligible sectors in the Atlantic provinces where the Program is administered by the Atlantic Canada Opportunities Agency ($124,614,811 as at March 31, 1990) and in the Gaspé Peninsula and Magdalene Islands of Québec where administration of the Program is the responsibility of the Department of Industry, Science and Technology ($27,600,407 as at March 31, 1990). Industry, Science and Technology also has responsibility for all capital projects in excess of $20 million.

[8] Includes $62,034 attributable to the Canadian Industrial Renewal Board.

TABLE 11.11

STATEMENT OF CONTINGENT LIABILITIES AS AT MARCH 31, 1990—Concluded

[9] The authorized limit for loan guarantees for on- reserve housing totals $575,000,000 (as shown above) for loans made by the Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation, the Farm Credit Corporation and other approved lenders.

[10] Amount denominated wholly or partially in a foreign currency and translated at the closing rate of exchange as at date of statement.

[11] The maximum aggregate amount that may be paid or that may have been paid from the Consolidated Revenue Fund (CRF) relative to Indian economic development in previous, current or subsequent years, with respect to all guarantees authorized and granted, is set at $60 million. As at March 31, 1990, a total of $26,015,858 has been expended from the CRF leaving a balance of $33,984,142 available for disbursement.

[12] Loans under the guarantee have been repaid in full and consequently contingent liability no longer exists.

[13] Maislin Industries Ltd was placed in receivership on July 11, 1983 and was declared bankrupt on October 19, 1983. To date, the Government has made interim payments totalling $18,500,000 US to creditors under a guarantee in the amount of $27,000,000 US. It is anticipated that the Government will be called upon to make a final payment of possibly $8,500,000 US to settle remaining obligations to creditors when certain issues are settled in US Bankruptcy Court, however the amount cannot be determined at present with any certainty.

[14] Since 1984, the Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) has operated the Mortgage Rate Protection Program on behalf of the Government. In return for payment of a premium, CMHC will reimburse homeowners 75% of any increase in monthly mortgage payments, above a deductible, due to higher interest rates at the time of mortgage renewal. As recent mortgage interest rates have been relatively stable, the Program is not widely utilized and loans covered by the Program at March 31, 1990 amounted to only $911,000 ($911,000 at March 31, 1989). Premiums collected by CMHC are remitted directly to the Consolidated Revenue Fund (CRF) and obligations are ultimately payable from the CRF. Because of the nature of the Program, it is not possible to estimate the amounts, if any, that might be payable at some future date.

[15] There have been no claims under the Nuclear Liability Act since its inception in 1970. The Act covers 15 Canadian nuclear installations as at March 31, 1990.

[16] The Fishing Vessel Insurance Plan is administered by the Government to assist fishermen in meeting abnormal capital losses. A consolidated specified purpose account is credited with all amounts received by way of premiums, recoveries and with advances in accordance with regulations by the Government, such advances not to exceed $150,000 at any time. The account is debited with refunds of premiums and payments in settlement of third party vessel collision damage claims against fishermen, where the collision involves a vessel insured under the Plan. As at March 31, 1990, the insured value of vessels under the Plan amounted to $368,618,000; the balance of the account was $24,013,815 and outstanding claims against the Plan amounted to $1,250,000.

[17] The Export Development Act specifies that Export Development Corporation may enter into contracts of insurance, re-insurance, related guarantees and other agreements up to a maximum of $7 billion, the authorized limit.

[18] A letter of comfort has been issued with respect to credit grain sales by the Canadian Wheat Board. The letter states that the Government will assume responsibility for the liabilities arising from defaults in payment by countries purchasing Canadian grain on credit. Receivables under this guarantee amounted to approximately $4.2 billion at March 31, 1990.

[19] Less than 0.1%.

[20] The Government has agreed to pay Yukon Energy Corporation up to $300,000 per year up to March 31, 1997 should electricity sales to Curragh Resources Inc. fall below specified limits.

[21] Contingent liability no longer exists.

[22] Includes $7.7 billion related to native statutory and treaty obligations representing plaintiffs' claims in 73 litigation cases. There are another 120 similar cases for which amounts are not stated in the claims, and for which it is not possible to determine the amounts that may be ultimately payable.

[23] The Government has 6 comprehensive native land claims under negotiation which is the maximum number that may be negotiated at any one time. Two of these claims are awaiting ratification and one has been agreed to in principle. Should all 3 claims be ratified, and the legislation for the settlement thereof be enacted, the Government of Canada would be liable to pay financial compensation of $1.4 billion which would come due and payable over a number of years.
In addition to the compensation payments, the settlement of these 3 claims would lead to implementation costs, estimated to be $600 million, over the next ten years.

[24] Contingent gains. A contingent gain is a potential gain or possible recovery that may become an actuality when one or more future events occur or fail to occur. Two departments reported contingent gains as at March 31, 1990 totalling approximately $9.5 million.

[25] In accordance with the Government's significant accounting policies, the contingent liabilities of Crown corporations that rely on Government funding as their principal source of revenue, are consolidated with those of the Government. See Table 5.5 of this volume for further details of contingent liabilities of consolidated Crown corporations.

INTRODUCTION TO THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS

Nature of the Public Accounts

The Public Accounts is the report of the Government of Canada prepared each fiscal year by the Receiver General as required by Section 64 of the Financial Administration Act.

The report covers the fiscal year of the Government, which ends on March 31, and is prepared from data contained in the accounts of Canada and from more detailed records maintained in departments and agencies. The accounts of Canada is the centralized record of the Government's financial transactions maintained by the Receiver General in which the transactions of all departments and agencies are summarized. Each department and agency is responsible for reconciling its accounts to the control accounts of the Receiver General, and for maintaining detailed records of the transactions in their accounts.

The report covers the financial transactions of the Government during the year. In certain cases, parliamentary authority to undertake transactions was provided by legislation approved in earlier years.

Format of the Public Accounts

The Public Accounts is produced in three volumes. Volume I presents a summary analysis of the financial transactions of the Government while Volume III contains an annual consolidated report on the businesses and activities of all parent Crown corporations together with a listing of all Crown corporations and other corporate interests of Canada.

Volume II is published in two parts. Part I presents the financial operations of the Government, segregated by ministry while Part II presents additional information and analyses.

Part I is designed to reflect as closely as possible the form and content of Part II of the Main Estimates. Most tables and statements in Part I display the source and disposition of spending authorities. The level of details provided for the source and disposition of authorities is explained below:

- Source of Authorities
  - Available from previous years
    Spending authorities allowed to be brought forward from the previous year. Includes only those authorities where there is a specified dollar limit on total spending, or on the accumulated outstanding balance of items where revenues and receipts are available for spending. Usually these items are either revolving funds or loans. These amounts are available for spending without further approval from Parliament.
  - Main and Supplementary Estimates
    Include:
    - spending authorities requested in Main and Supplementary Estimates and approved by Appropriation Acts;
    - forecasts included in Main and Supplementary Estimates of spending under authorities granted in various other statutes including Appropriation Acts of previous years.
  - Adjustments and transfers
    Include:
    - transfers from or to other ministries such as Treasury Board contingency votes or changes in ministry responsibility;
    - transfers within the ministry from one vote to another (under Parliamentary authority), or between activities, types of expenditures or transfer payments;
    - changes to statutory amounts due to adjustments of spending forecasts included in Main and Supplementary Estimates, due to cancellation or amendment to statutes or due to adjustments of Crown corporations borrowing authorities;
    - reserved allotments to cover over-expenditures of previous year's authorities.
  - Total available for use
    Authorities available for spending during the current year (net of forecasted revenues and receipts available for spending).
- Disposition of Authorities
  - Used in the current year
    Amounts spent in the current year (net of actual revenues and receipts available for spending).
  - Lapsed (variance under)
    Unused spending authorities which cannot be carried forward to a subsequent year.
  - Overexpended (variance over)
    Excess of spending over authorities granted.
  - Available for use in subsequent years
    Unused spending authorities which have not lapsed and which are carried forward to a subsequent year.

- Used in the previous year
  Amounts spent in the previous year (net of actual revenues and receipts available for spending). For authorities, activities or transfer payments that no longer exist in the current year, the related total net expenditure of the previous year is reported as a single amount in line with the notation "Appropriation (activities or items) not required for the current year".

The content of Part I is summarized as follows:

(a) Summary Tables (Section 1)

Section 1 includes the following tables which provide summaries of the financial operations contained in the ministerial sections:

Table 1	presents the source and disposition of budgetary authorities by ministry
Table 2	presents the source and disposition of non-budgetary authorities by ministry
Table 3	presents the source and disposition of budgetary and non-budgetary authorities by ministry and by type of authority (voted and statutory)
Table 4	presents expenditure by type for each ministry
Table 5	presents expenditure by standard object for each ministry
Table 6	presents revenue by main classification for each ministry

Section 1 also includes, as appendices, the full wording of all authorities granted in current year Appropriation Acts, of all authorities granted by Statutes other than Appropriation Acts, of all non-lapsing authorities granted in the current year, and of all authorities available from previous years.

(b) Ministerial Sections (Sections 2 to 30)

There is one section for each ministry. The programs for the departments and agencies for which a Minister is responsible to Parliament are grouped together to provide a total ministry presentation. Each ministerial section provides a statement of program objectives and activity descriptions. Each ministerial section also includes, where applicable, a uniform set of statements to present each ministry's financial operations. These statements are:

- Ministry Summary
  This statement displays by program the source and disposition of each budgetary and non-budgetary authority granted by Parliament in Appropriation Acts and other statutes.
- Programs by Activity
  This statement displays by program the source and disposition of authorities for each activity under each type of expenditure (operating, capital, transfer payments and non-budgetary).
- Transfer Payments
  This statement displays by program the source and disposition of authorities for each transfer payment.
- Details of Amounts Credited to the Vote
  This statement displays by program the nature of revenues and receipts which increase the amounts which may be spent from appropriations having net voting authority.
- Revenue
  This statement displays by program the nature of revenue collected for each main classification of revenue.

The statements in the ministerial sections are designed so that the relevant totals and sub-totals may be traced directly to a preceeding statement and then to the Summary Tables in Section 1. In this way:

- data in the Transfer Payments statement can be traced to the Programs by Activity statement which can in turn be traced to the Ministry Summary (of source and disposition of authorities) statement. Data in the Ministry Summary statement can be traced to the Summary Tables (Tables 1, 2 and 3) in Section 1.
- data in the Details of Amounts Credited to the Vote statement can be traced to the Programs by Activity statement and also to Summary Table 5 in Section 1.
- data in the Revenue statement can be traced to Summary Table 6 in Section 1.

General Summary
Voted and Statutory Authorities

Table 3 presents the source and disposition of budgetary and non-budgetary authorities by ministry and by type of authority (voted and statutory). The level of details provided for the source and disposition of authorities is explained in the Introduction to this volume. In addition, detailed information is provided in the "Ministry Summary" statement in each ministerial section of this volume.

The Government submits its spending proposals to Parliament in the annual Estimates. During the year, the Government may request further appropriations. The initial request is called the "Main Estimates" and additional requests are called "Supplementary Estimates". With these Estimates, the Government requests authority for that part of the proposed spending which is not already provided by other statutes. The amounts making up the total of such proposed spending are authorized in appropriation acts and are generally referred to as "annual" or "voted" authorities. The balance of the planned spending is made under authority of other statutes which authorize disbursements for specified purposes, and for such amounts and time periods as are set by those acts. The proposed or estimated uses of most of these "statutory" authorities for the current year are included in the Estimates for information purposes; however, they are not included in appropriation acts because they have already been authorized by Parliament.

Voted authorities, with few exceptions, lapse at the end of the year if not used, while statutory authorities, with few exceptions, are carried forward to future years. Those authorities which extend to subsequent years are referred to as "non-lapsing".

Budgetary appropriations provide spending authority for those transactions which enter into the calculation of the annual deficit or surplus of the Government. Non-budgetary appropriations provide spending authority for all transactions which result in the acquisition or disposal of loans, investments and advances. Balances of appropriations brought forward from the previous years are available for spending, together with current increases to such authorities.

The totals of these authorities are reduced by the amount of their current year use to determine the balances which lapse, are overexpended or are carried forward to future years, depending upon the type of authority. In cases where the spending of loan repayments is authorized, the non-budgetary spending is reported net of such repayments.

General Summary
Expenditure by Type

Table 4 presents expenditure by type for each ministry. Total net expenditure by type is segregated into expenditure with outside parties and expenditure internal to the Government. In addition, total expenditure with outside parties is presented on both a gross and net basis. The difference between gross and net expenditure with outside parties is revenue credited to appropriations from outside parties and revenue of the consolidated Crown corporations credited to expenditure.

In this table, expenditure with outside parties represents expenditure incurred as a result of transactions with organizations and individuals outside the Government of Canada as a reporting entity while expenditure internal to the Government represents expenditure incurred as a result of transactions between organizations within the reporting entity. The Government of Canada as a reporting entity is defined in Note 1 to the audited financial statements in Section 2 of Volume I.

Revenue credited to appropriations represents revenue that has been credited to expenditure rather than to revenue where authority has been granted by Parliament. Revenue of consolidated Crown corporations credited to expenditure represents the gross revenue of such corporations.

The "Total expenditure" column of this table presents the total expenditure reported for each ministry in the ministerial sections of this volume.

The last part of this table reconciles total expenditure reported by ministries with expenditure reported in the audited Statement of Revenue and Expenditure in Section 2 of Volume I. The reconciling items include the expenditure of the consolidated specified purpose accounts, the consolidated Crown corporations, the provision for valuation, and the elimination of expenditure internal to the Government. "Total net expenditure" represents all budgetary expenditure recorded in the accounts of Canada in accordance with the accounting policies of the Government as set out in Note 1 to the audited financial statements of the Government in Section 2 of Volume I.

General Summary
Expenditure by Standard Object

Table 5 presents expenditure by standard object for each ministry. The standard object presentation of expenditure is related to the goods and services acquired, and transfer payments made, by the Government. Total expenditure is presented on both a gross and net basis. The difference between gross and net expenditure is revenue credited to appropriations and revenue of consolidated Crown corporations credited to expenditure. The table also segregates expenditure with outside parties and expenditure internal to the Government.

In this table, expenditure with outside parties represents expenditure incurred as a result of transactions with organizations and individuals outside the Government of Canada as a reporting entity while expenditure internal to the Government represents expenditure incurred as a result of transactions between organizations within the reporting entity. The Government of Canada as a reporting entity is defined in Note 1 to the audited financial statements in Section 2 of Volume I.

Revenue credited to appropriations represents revenue that has been credited to expenditure rather than to revenue, where authority has been granted by Parliament, and revenue of consolidated Crown corporations credited to expenditure. Revenue of consolidated Crown corporations credited to expenditure represents the gross revenue of such corporations.

"Total gross expenditure" before consolidated specified purpose accounts, provision and consolidated Crown corporations, represents the total of expenditure charged to standard objects 1 to 12 inclusively. "Total net expenditure" represents the result of total gross expenditure less total revenue credited to appropriations as reported in the accounts of Canada and revenue of consolidated Crown corporations credited to expenditure. "Total net expenditure" before consolidated specified purpose accounts, provision and consolidated Crown corporations, discloses the total expenditure reported for each ministry in the ministerial sections of this volume.

The last part of this table reconciles total expenditure reported by ministries with expenditure reported in the audited Statement of Revenue and Expenditure in Section 2 of Volume I. The reconciling items include the expenditure of the consolidated specified purpose accounts, the provision for valuation, the consolidated Crown corporations and the elimination of expenditure internal to the Government. "Total net expenditure" represents all budgetary expenditure recorded in the accounts of Canada in accordance with the accounting policies of the Government as set out in Note 1 to the audited financial statements of the Government in Section 2 of Volume I.

General Summary
Revenue by Main Classification

Table 6 presents revenue by main classification for each ministry on both a gross and net basis. The difference between gross and net revenue is revenue credited to appropriations and revenue of consolidated Crown corporations. The table also segregates revenue from outside parties and revenue internal to the Government.

In this table, revenue from outside parties represents revenue received from organizations and individuals outside the Government of Canada as a reporting entity while revenue internal to the Government represents revenue generated from transactions between organizations within the reporting entity. The Government of Canada as a reporting entity is defined in Note 1 to the audited financial statements in Section 2 of Volume I.

Revenue credited to appropriations represents revenue that has been credited to expenditure rather than to revenue where authority has been granted by Parliament.

"Total gross revenue" column represents revenue from all sources, including revenue credited to appropriations and revenue of consolidated Crown corporations. The "Revenue internal to the Government" column represents the tax and non-tax revenue internal to the Government. The "Total net revenue" column represents tax and non-tax revenue from both external and internal sources, excluding revenue credited to appropriations and revenue of consolidated Crown corporations. This latter column discloses total ministerial revenue before consolidated accounts as reported in the "Revenue" statement in each ministerial section of this volume.

The last part of this table reconciles total revenue reported by ministries with revenue reported in the audited Statement of Revenue and Expenditure in Section 2 of Volume I. The reconciling items include the revenue from the consolidated specified purpose accounts, the adjustment of the Exchange Fund Account to recognize the international reserves held in the Account, the accrual of non-tax revenue and the elimination of revenue internal to the Government. "Total net revenue" represents all budgetary revenue recorded in the accounts of Canada in accordance with the accounting policies of the Government as set out in Note 1 to the audited financial statements of the Government in Section 2 of Volume I.

Activity Description

Hazardous Materials Information Review Commission

The Commission is an independent agency charged with making decisions on claims for exemption from the reporting requirements of the Workplace Hazardous Materials Information System (WHMIS), filed by suppliers of, or employers using hazardous industrial materials, on the basis that disclosure would reveal commercially valuable information. Based upon advice from Health and Welfare Canada toxicologists, Commission staff also determine whether associated material safety data sheets and labels comply with the provisions of the Hazardous Products Act, the Canada Labour Code and various provincial and territorial legislation concerning occupational health and safety. Affected parties have the right to appeal a screening officer's decision or order to an independent, tripartite appeal board set up in the province of appeal and administered by the Commission. In addition, the Commission may disclose confidential business information for enforcement purposes or in the event of a medical emergency to persons bound to keep it confidential.

The Board also prepares an annual report to Parliament on pricing trends of all medicines and on research and development in the pharmaceutical industry in Canada.

Standards Council of Canada

Objective

To foster and promote voluntary standardization in fields relating to the construction, manufacture, production, quality, performance and safety of buildings, structures, manufactured articles and products and other goods and to further international co-operation in the field of standards.

(S) Statutory transfer payment.

(1) Due to an administrative error, Supplementary Estimates which sought to increase current authority of $2,078,000 to meet incremental requirements for Grants to individuals to protect Indian and Inuit children, individuals and families living on Indian reserves inadvertently used wording for Social assistance payments to individuals, Indians, Inuit and non-Indians residing on Indian reserves.

[1] Treasury Board Vote 5—Government contingencies.
Treasury Board Vote 10—Employment initiatives.

[2] During the year, Canadian Space Agency was created (PC 1989-307). Certain responsibilities have been transferred from Communications, $13,191,114; Energy, Mines and Resources, $2,028,566 and Industry, Science and Technology—Department, $6,847,595 to this new Agency.

[3] Industry, Science and Technology originated from the amalgamation of the former Regional Industrial Expansion and Science and Technology. The previous year's expenditure (budgetary and non-budgetary) of the amalgamated ministries are now reported by the new entity. In addition, certain responsibilities (Textile and Clothing Board) of the former Regional Industrial Expansion have been transferred to Finance under Canadian International Trade Tribunal resulting in a restatement of the previous year's expenditure by $838,507.

(1) Previous year's figures by activity are not available due to new breakdown in activity.

(2) During the year, Canadian Space Agency was created (PC 1989-307). Certain responsibilities have been transferred from Communications, $13,191,114; Energy, Mines and Resources, $2,028,566 and Industry, Science and Technology—Department, $6,847,595 to this new Agency.

(3) This amount includes an increase in revenue credited to the vote available for spending of $4,173,358 (TB 812831).

(4) Industry, Science and Technology originated from the amalgamation of the former Regional Industrial Expansion and Science and Technology. The previous year's expenditure (budgetary and non-budgetary) of the amalgamated ministries are now reported by the new entity. In addition, certain responsibilities (Textile and Clothing Board) of the former Regional Industrial Expansion have been transferred to Finance under Canadian International Trade Tribunal resulting in a restatement of the previous year's expenditure by $838,507.

Department

Objective

To deter the use of force or coercion against Canada and Canadian interests and to be able to respond adequately should deterrence fail.

Activity Description

Maritime Forces

This element encompasses the creation and maintenance of general-purpose regular and reserve maritime forces designed primarily to fulfil the missions of defending, in conjunction with US and NATO forces, the maritime approaches to North America and the sea areas vital to NATO; and conducting in conjunction with US Forces, surveillance to detect, track and identify strategic submarine forces threatening North America. The forces raised for these purposes have the inherent capabilities necessary to fulfil the other missions assigned, namely: protecting Canadian territory, rights and interests against external maritime challenges; assisting other Government departments and agencies in enforcing Canadian laws and regulations in maritime areas under Canadian jurisdiction; contributing maritime forces to international arrangements to prevent or contain conflicts outside the NATO area; and contributing to national development.

Land Forces in Canada

This element encompasses the creation and maintenance of general-purpose regular and reserve land forces designed primarily to fulfil, concurrently, the two missions of defending, in conjunction with US Forces, against hostile military lodgement in North America; and providing, in an emergency, additional land forces for the defence of Europe within the framework of agreed NATO commitments. The forces raised for these purposes have the inherent capabilities necessary to fulfil the other missions assigned, namely: promoting international stability by contributing to peacekeeping activities in co-operation with other members of the international community; supplementing and supporting the civilian authorities in maintaining surveillance and preserving control over and security within the national territory of Canada; assisting civilian authorities in the event of emergency or disaster; and contributing to national development.

Air Forces in Canada

This element encompasses the creation and maintenance of general-purpose regular and reserve air forces designed primarily to fulfil, concurrently, the two missions of defending, in conjunction with US Forces against aerospace attack on North America; and providing in an emergency additional general-purpose air forces for the defence of Europe within the framework of agreed NATO commitments. It includes, as well, the provision of an air transport system to support military commitments in Canada and abroad, tactical helicopter forces to support the needs of the land forces in Canada, maritime air forces to support Canada's maritime forces, and search and rescue forces. The forces raised for these purposes have the inherent capabilities necessary to fulfil the other missions assigned, namely: supplementing and supporting the civilian authorities in maintaining surveillance and preserving control over the Canadian airspace, assisting civilian authorities in the event of emergency or disaster and contributing to national development.

Canadian Forces in Europe

This element encompasses the creation and maintenance of military forces in Europe in order to prevent or contain armed attack against the European NATO area. It involves the three missions of providing land forces, air forces and national command and support of all Canadian forces which would, in an emergency, serve in Europe.

Communication Services

This element encompasses the creation and maintenance of forces designed to provide information handling services in the form of strategic communications in support of the Canadian Forces and Emergency Government (EMGOV) tasks. In addition, communications research and high frequency direction-finding facilities are provided.

Personnel Support

This element encompasses the provision of services required for the personnel development (recruitment, individual training, education), personnel management (administration, career assignment, spiritual, morale, comfort support), and health services (medical, dental) as appropriate for military and civilian members of the Department.

Materiel Support

This element encompasses the provision of supply, transportation, equipment engineering and maintenance, real property management, and research and development.

Policy Direction and Management Services

This element encompasses the formulation and recommendation of defence objectives and policy options and the development of clear authoritative expressions of Government approved defence policy to provide overall direction for developmental planning in the Department and the management of the Defence Services Program. Equally important, is the command and control function, within which the detailed operational, materiel, personnel and financial preparations are made for times of crisis or war. This function also embodies the exercise of command and control of the "day-to-day" operations of the Canadian Forces by the Chief of Defence Staff or delegated subordinate commanders. With respect to the more general management services, this element includes the development, and general direction of management information systems, consulting, audit, evaluation, financial and accounting services within the Department, that are consistent with legislative and regulatory requirements and authority.

Emergency Preparedness Canada

Northern Pipeline Agency

Objective

To facilitate the efficient and expeditious planning and construction of the Alaska Highway Gas Pipeline in a manner consistent with the best interests of Canada as defined in the Northern Pipeline Act.

Activity Description

Regulation of Construction of the Alaska Highway Gas Pipeline

To carry out and give effect to the Agreement of September 20, 1977, between Canada and the United States; to facilitate the efficient and expeditious planning and construction of the pipeline, taking into account local, regional and national interests, including those of the native people, and carrying out federal responsibilities in relation to the pipeline; to facilitate consultation and co-ordination with the governments of the provinces and the territories; to maximize social and economic benefits while minimizing any adverse social and environmental effects; to advance national economic and energy interests and to ensure the highest possible degree of Canadian participation in all aspects of the planning, construction and procurement for the pipeline.

Public Service Staff Relations Board

Objective

To provide the framework within which the various rights and responsibilities of participants to collective bargaining in the Public Service are to be exercised and to provide information to participants on rates of pay and other conditions of employment in Canada.

Activity Description

Staff Relations Administration

The Public Service Staff Relations Board is the quasi-judicial statutory tribunal responsible for the administration of the Public Service Staff Relations Act which established a system of collective bargaining and grievance adjudication in the Federal Public Service. Its mandate as a neutral third party is to resolve, by assistance or determination, disputes over the negotiation, application and interpretation of collective agreements, the imposition of discipline, and disputes over all other manner of proceedings falling under the purview of the Act.

The Board also provides physical premises and administrative support services to the National Joint Council which is a consultative body of representatives of the employer and employees for the negotiation of terms and conditions of employment that do not lend themselves to unit by unit bargaining.

Pay Research Bureau

The Pay Research Bureau conducts research and carries out surveys on rates of pay, benefits and conditions of employment primarily as they relate to those units of employees in the Public Service to whom the system of collective bargaining established by the Public Service Staff Relations Act applies. The Bureau also engages in similar activities in respect of groups that are excluded from that process.

Security Intelligence Review Committee

Objective

To provide external review of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service performance of its duties and functions; and to examine complaints by individuals or reports by Ministers related to security clearances and the national security of Canada.

Activity Description

Security Intelligence Review Committee

The Security Intelligence Review Committee conducts research, institutes studies, undertakes compliance audits, and reports annually to Parliament on the activities of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service. The Committee also conducts investigations of relevant files, holds hearings, calls witnesses, and makes reports to the deputy heads and Ministers concerned, or to the Governor in Council.
